LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

Harrisburg, November 26, 1897.

Hon. James W. Latta, Secretary of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Sir: I have the honor to present herewith the report of the Railway Bureau for the year ending June 30, 1897, for transmission to the General Assembly, as required by law.

Very truly yours,
ISAAC B. BROWN,
Superintendent Bureau of Railways.

REPORT.

In submitting the annual report for the year ending June 30, 1897, it is proper to call attention to the amendment made to the law by the last legislature with reference to the corporations that are required to make reports to this Bureau. Prior to the passage of the act of 1897 foreign corporations operating lines within the State were not required to make reports for such operating companies' entire systems. They were required only to make reports of such lines as they operated within the limits of the State. For instance, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has several roads within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania under other names that are subsidiary to the Baltimore and Ohio proper. No report was made by this company with reference to its general operations in other states, but operating reports were made by the subsidiary companies showing the operations, when in fact the subsidiary companies were not carrying on the operations of the roads. Similar conditions existed with reference to two or three other foreign corporations and it was therefore suggested to the Legislature that the laws requiring reports to be made should be so amended that all railway corporations owning or operating roads within the limits of Pennsylvania should be required to make annual reports covering the entire operations of their lines both within and without the State. Complying with the suggestion of the Bureau, the law was so amended and approved by the Governor, April 19, 1897. By the changed conditions brought about by the passage of this act the aggregate capitalization, funded indebtedness, mileage and many other items with reference to railways are greatly augmented. The act with its amendments now constituting the law of the State with reference to the annual reports to be made to the Bureau of Railways, is as follows:

An act relative to annual reports of railway, canal, telegraph and telephone corporations.

Section 1. That the Secretary of Internal Affairs be and he is hereby directed to cause to be made and printed, blank forms for the annual reports of the several railroad, canal, navigation, telegraph and telephone corporations owning, operating or controlling lines of railways, transportation, telegraphs and telephones in whole or in part in Pennsylvania, referred to in the second section of this act, and the said Secretary of Internal Affairs shall forward by mail or otherwise on or before the first day of June in each year, to each of said corporations, copies of said forms; and when the same shall have been returned to the said Secretary of Internal Affairs, properly filled out and executed as required by the second section of this act, he shall cause the same to be filed in the Bureau of Railways of his department, and published in book form, and cause copies of said report to be transmitted to the Governor and the members of the Legislature, on or before the fifteenth day of January in each year as required by law.

Section 2. That it is hereby made the duty of each railroad, canal, navigation, telegraph and telephone company, or other corporation owning, operating or controlling lines of works in whole or in part within the limits of this State, to make out and return to the Secretary of Internal Affairs a complete report, according to the form to be prescribed by the said Secretary of Internal Affairs, which, among other things shall embrace in detail the operations and affairs of said corporations during the fiscal year, together with such other information as the Secretary shall direct. Said report shall be attested by the oath or affirmation of at least two of the following named officers of the company, president, general manager, superintendent, sequestrator, secretary, treasurer and auditor. That said report shall cover the transactions of each of said corporations for the fiscal year ending on the thirtieth day of June, each year, and shall be filed in the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs not later than the thirty-first day of August in each year.

Section 3. That every such railroad, canal, navigation, telegraph and telephone company, or other corporation owning, operating or controlling lines of railway, canal, transportation, telegraph or telephone, located in whole or in part in Pennsylvania, that shall refuse or neglect to make such report as herein provided and at the time specified in the second section of this act, shall be liable to a penalty of five thousand dollars to the use of the Commonwealth for every such refusal or neglect, to be sued for and recovered as debts of like amount are or may be by law recoverable.

Approved—The 19th day of April, A. D. 1897.

DANIEL H. HASTINGS.

In the amended law, the penalty for failure to make annual reports in the manner and at the time specified remains the same, to wit, $5,000. The reports cover the fiscal year ending June 30, and must be on file in this Bureau on or before August 31. Notwithstanding the severe penalty and the fact that during the last two or three years several delinquent companies have been certified to the Attorney General for the collection of the penalty, the 31st day of August this year found upwards of 200 delinquent corporations. This, of course, includes not only steam railways, but also street railways, telephone, telegraph and canal companies. A circular letter was addressed to each delinquent company and subsequently telegrams were sent requesting immediate compliance with the law with reference to making reports, and in addition to this, a special agent of the Bureau was sent to the western part of the State where the greatest difficulty has been experienced in procuring reports. Every effort was made to notify the delinquent companies, and yet a number of them either through neglect or wilful disobedience have failed to make their annual reports. However, among the delinquents there is only one steam railway company, the South Mountain. As appears by the statement hereinafter found, thirty-one delinquent companies have been certified to the Attorney General for the imposition of the penalty, and it becomes his duty under the law to collect these amounts from such delinquent companies. While the Bureau has no authority to extend the time within which reports are to be made, it has been found that some of the larger corporations, however diligent they may be in preparing the data, are unable to complete their reports in time to comply strictly with the law. When requests come from corporations of this kind for an extension of time, a few days additional has been granted them. It is proper to add here that nearly all the great transportation companies, such as the Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia and Reading, the Lehigh Valley, the Erie, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Pennsylvania Company and the Central Railroad of New Jersey are the most prompt in complying with the law in regard to the making of reports, and are the most accurate in arranging the data.

The duty devolving upon this department with reference to certifying delinquent corporations cannot be evaded, and while it seems a severe punishment to inflict a penalty of $5,000 for the neglect or refusal to make a report yet, as against this view of the case, it must be admitted that the failure to comply with the law is either due to negligence or disregard of the obligations imposed upon these corporations, and that therefore there is no room for complaint when their delinquency is certified to the Attorney General.

The data contained in the reports of the steam railway corporations have been classified, first, with reference to liabilities, subdivided as follows: Total amount of stock outstanding, total amount of funded debt outstanding, total amount of other forms of indebtedness, including current liabilities, and a total of these items constituting the entire railway capitalization. Second, railway assets, subdivided as follows: Cost of roads owned, cost of equipment owned, stocks and bonds owned, cash and current assets, other assets, total assets. These two tables exhibit concisely the financial status of the railway corporations whose reports are contained in the two tables designated

Table B, Liabilities, and Table C, Assets. Third, mileage, subdivided as follows: Main line, branches and spurs, line of proprietary company, line operated under lease, line operated under other forms of contract, line operated under trackage rights, total mileage operated, total mileage operated in Pennsylvania, miles of new line constructed during the year, and aggregate length of all tracks, including yard tracks, sidings and spurs. By this system of classifying mileage it is easy to ascertain the mileage which each corporation owns or which it controls or operates under different forms of lease or contract, the amount of mileage which each road has in Pennsylvania as well as any new construction made during the year. The consolidated data with reference to mileage will be found in Table D. Fourth, equipment and persons employed. Equipment is subdivided as to number of locomotives in service, number of cars in passenger service, number of cars in freight service, number of cars in company's service, and total number of cars in service. Employes are classified with reference to total number, total yearly compensation and average daily compensation. These data will be found in Table E. Fifth, train mileage, classified with reference to number of miles run by passenger trains, number of miles run by freight trains, number of miles run by mixed trains, and total number of miles run. The consolidated data will be found in Table F. Sixth, number of passengers carried, cost per mile, classified with reference to number of passengers carried earning revenue, number of passengers carried one mile, average distance carried, total passenger revenue, average amount received from each passenger, average amount received per passenger per mile, passenger earnings per train mile and passenger earnings per mile of road. These data are compiled under Table G. Seventh, kind of freight carried in tons, classified with reference to products of agriculture, products of animals, products of mines, products of forests, manufactures, merchandise and miscellaneous. These data are compiled under Table H. Eighth, quantity of freight carried, cost per ton, classified with reference to number of tons carried or freight earning revenue, number of tons carried one mile, average distance haul of one ton, total freight revenue, average amount received for each ton of freight, average receipts per ton per mile, freight earnings per train mile and freight earnings per mile of road. These data are compiled under Table I. Ninth, earnings and income during the year, classified with reference to passenger earnings, freight earnings, other earnings from operation, total earnings from operation, income from other sources, including interest on bonds, dividends on stock, rentals, etc., and total earnings and income. These data are compiled under Table J. Tenth, expenses during the year, classified with reference to maintenance of way and structures, maintenance of equipment, conducting transportation, general expenses and total operating expenses. These data are compiled under Table K. Other expenses as per deductions from income, total expenditures for the year, total amount of dividends paid during the year, surplus or deficit for the year, after deducting dividends, will also be found under Table K. Eleventh, accidents, classified with reference to passengers killed, passengers injured, employes killed, employes injured, other persons killed, other persons injured, total number killed, total number injured. These data will be found under Table L.

STOCK CAPITALIZATION.

The aggregate amount of capital stock outstanding of the steam railways reporting for the year was $1,074,966,688, showing an increase over last year of $89,463,499. This increase is not due to the construction of new lines in Pennsylvania, or the increase of the capital stock of those railways whose lines have heretofore been in operation, but is due to the fact that the lines of three of the leading foreign corporations whose reports have not heretofore been filed in this Bureau are now included, to wit, the Baltimore and Ohio, with capital stock outstanding of $30,000,000, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, with capital stock outstanding of $22,497,000, and the New York, Ontario and Western, with capital stock outstanding of $58,118,983. There is no marked change in the total capitalization of any of the other roads from the amounts reported last year. The five companies having the greatest stock capitalization are the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, $50,000,000; Erie, $146,000,000; Pennsylvania, $129,303,300; Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, $47,699,101; New York, Ontario and Western, $58,118,983. The total stock capitalization of these five great corporations constitutes about 41 per cent. of the entire capitalization reported to the Bureau, although in number they constitute but 2 per cent. Some comparisons made with the stock capitalization of railways in the United States, as reported by the statistician of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the year ending June 30, 1896, will be of interest. The entire capitalization of the steam railways of the United States was $5,226,527,269. It will be seen therefore that one-fifth of the entire steam railway capitalization of the United States is included in the annual reports filed in this Bureau.

FUNDED INDEBTEDNESS.

The funded indebtedness of the steam railways for the year is reported as $991,082,723, which, exclusive of current liabilities, makes the entire capitalization $2,066,049,411. Adding to this capitalization and funded indebtedness the current liabilities, or unfunded indebtedness, it is found that the total capitalization is $2,279,811,527. Last year's report shows the entire capitalization to have been $2,007,191,535, an increase for this year over last year of $272,619,992. This increase, of course, is due to the fact that to the items of funded and unfunded indebtedness are added $147,618,833 by the report of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, $78,007,034 by the report of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and $73,326,000 by the report of the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company, which items did not one year ago enter into the capitalization reported. As above indicated, the entire railway capitalization is $2,279,811,527. Of this amount the capital stock outstanding amounts to 47.1 per cent. of the entire capitalization; the funded indebtedness to 43.4 per cent. of the entire capitalization, and the other forms of indebtedness, including current liabilities, to 9.5 per cent. of the total capitalization. Last year the unfunded indebtedness, including current liabilities, constituted only 6.2 per cent. of the total capitalization. The increase for the year is owing to the large amount of unfunded indebtedness reported by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, to wit, $32,722,333. It is probable that the percentage of funded indebtedness will be reduced during the year, as it is likely that a large amount of the unfunded indebtedness carried by the company named will assume another form before the close of another fiscal year. The report of the statistician of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the year ending June 30, 1896, shows that the railway stock capitalization of the United States is $5,266,527,269, funded indebtedness $5,340,338,502, and other forms of indebtedness, including current liabilities, $613,000,000, or a total of $11,179,865,771. It would appear from these figures that in the United States the stock capitalization is 46.7 per cent. of the total capitalization, the funded indebtedness 47.8 per cent., and other forms of indebtedness 5.5 per cent. As a general rule, the financial standing of a corporation must be measured very largely by the burden of indebtedness it carries, and yet some of the most substantial of these railway corporations have a bonded indebtedness which would seem to be a burden too heavy to be borne, yet when it is considered that they own stocks and bonds of other corporations from which they derive dividends and interest, it changes their financial status materially. The total amount of stocks owned by railways (of other railway corporations), reported to this Bureau is $314,348,765, and of stocks of other corporations, $33,437,821, or a total of stocks owned of $349,766,586. In addition to the amount of stocks owned, the railway corporations reporting to this Bureau show ownership of bonds of other railways amounting to $59,750,736, and bonds of corporations other than railways amounting to $22,100,441, or a total of bonds owned of $31,851,177, or a grand total of stocks and bonds owned of $431,637,763. While the capital stock outstanding of these steam railway corporations, as before seen, is $1,074,966,686, yet the corporations themselves own 32 per cent. of the stocks of other railway corporations and of the stock of corporations other than railways. In addition to the ownership of stock, they own bonds equal to 8 per cent. of the entire funded indebtedness outstanding. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company still has the greatest ownership of stocks and bonds, amounting to $174,839,677. The next in amount is the Pennsylvania Company, $66,230,363; the Lehigh Valley, $31,210,354; the Baltimore and Ohio, $30,099,199; the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, $21,307,646. Of the stocks and bonds owned by all railway corporations, amounting to $431,637,763, these five companies own 87 per cent. The good financial status of the Pennsylvania Railroad is made more apparent when it is known that it has a capitalization of $212,965,199, yet it owns stocks of other corporations amounting to $174,839,679, or equal to 82 per cent. of its entire capitalization.

DIVIDENDS.

As before seen, the entire stock capitalization outstanding is \$1,074,966,688. This is the stock capitalization of 285 steam railways. Of this entire number but 85 report the payment of dividends. These 85 companies paid during the year \$23,392,902. The other 200 companies report no dividends paid. About 30 per cent. paid dividends and 70 per cent. conducted the operations of their lines without making any return to the stockholders. The capitalization of the 85 companies paying dividends was found to be \$531,017,045, indicating that the \$23,392,902 amount to an average of about $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. Computed on the entire capital investment reported, the average dividend is about $2\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. Comparing these statistics with data compiled from the report of 1896, when the entire stock capitalization was \$985,503,189, and the entire dividends paid \$25,340,859, it is found that of the 278 companies making report, 80 paid the entire amount of dividends, while the remaining companies, 198 in number, paid no dividends whatever. Twenty-nine per cent. paid dividends and 71 per cent. did not. The average percentage of dividends paid last year by the 80 companies, embracing a capital stock of \$477,477,992, was substantially 5 per cent. The average percentage of dividends paid on the entire amount of stock capitalization was nearly the same as for the year covered by this report, to wit, 2½ per cent. Looking at these figures from another standpoint, it is found that the capital stock of the companies reporting this year paying dividends was \$531,017,045, and the total capital stock was \$1,074,966,688, which indicates that of the entire capital stock nearly 50 per cent. pays dividends. For the preceding year, when the capital stock was \$985,503,189, about 49 per cent. paid dividends. While the stocks of the railway corporations reporting to this Bureau do not exhibit the most encouraging statistics with reference to the payment of dividends, yet the conditions are much more favorable with reference to these stocks than they are with reference to railway stocks generally throughout the United States. The report of the statistician of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the year 1896 discloses the fact that of the entire capitalization of the railways of the United States, to wit, \$5,226,527,269, \$3,667,503,194 paid no dividends, leaving 70.17 per cent. of the entire stock capitalization of the United States as non-dividend paying stock for that year.

COST OF ROAD AND EQUIPMENT.

If the 285 railway corporations whose lines are operated and whose reports have been filed for the year, the road and equipment appear to have cost $1,742,476,579. The discrepancy between the cost of road and equipment and the capitalization is no small amount, and can be more easily accounted for by those who have manipulated the capitalization of the railways than it can be ascertained from the reports filed in this Bureau. There has been a steady increase from year to year in the amounts reported as indicating the cost of road and equipment. This would naturally follow, as in many cases large sums which are reported as income are devoted to betterments. Last year the amount given as representing cost of road and equipment was $1,536,070,100. This increase of about 200 millions which is shown by the reports of this year is, of course, largely due to the fact that the returns are augmented by the reports of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, and the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company. There are six great railway corporations reporting to the Bureau whose cost of road and equipment is in each case over 50 millions of dollars. These are the Erie, $271,727,586; the Pennsylvania Railroad, $116,590,292; the Philadelphia and Reading, $79,851,858; the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, $94,100,240; the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, $84,000,000, and the Western New York and Pennsylvania, $51,423,994. These six leading corporations report a cost of road and equipment approaching one-half of the entire amount reported by all the railway corporations which make return to this Bureau. To judge of the ability of a railway corporation to serve public interests along its line, one must have knowledge of the facilities it has with reference to transporting persons and commodities. It is altogether likely that the railways of no other state in the Union have as excellent equipment, both for passenger and freight traffic, or have in any way near the quantity per mile of road, as the railways reporting to this Bureau. In the United States, in 1896, there were 20 locomotives per 100 miles of road, including passenger, freight and switching locomotives, while in Pennsylvania there are 44 locomotives per 100 miles of road. Again, in the United States the number of passenger, freight and other cars per 100 miles of road was last year 713; in Pennsylvania there are now 39 passenger cars, 1,910 freight cars and 59 other cars in companies' service, or a total of 2,008 per 100 mile of road. A comparison of the returns as compiled by the statistician of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the past four or five years will show a decrease in the number of cars, both passenger and freight throughout the country, but a more favorable condition is found with reference to the equipment of the railways reporting in Pennsylvania, for notwithstanding the hard times there seems to have been a steady increase in the number of passenger and freight cars per 100 miles of road. The following table exhibits the equipment owned by ten of the leading companies reporting to this Bureau, from which it will be seen that these companies own a very large proportion of the entire equipment of all the roads, and when compared with other data that they also carry a proportionate number of the passengers and quantity of the freight.

MILEAGE.

Including miles owned, operated, controlled, and trackage rights of the roads reporting to this Bureau, the mileage amounts to 22,746.84 miles. Last year it was 19,560.32. The increase is due of course to the fact that the mileage of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey and the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company has been added to the list. Of this entire mileage 10,253.17 is within the limits of the State. Last year the returns showed 10,054.38 miles in the State, which indicates that during the year there has been an increase either from additional construction or owing to defective returns heretofore, of 198.79 miles. The total mileage of the United States in 1896 was 182,776.63. It would seem therefore that the mileage of the railways in Pennsylvania is 5 2-3 per cent. of the entire mileage of the country, and that the mileage operated by the roads reporting to this Bureau is 12 2-5 per cent. of the entire mileage.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES AND THEIR COMPENSATION.

On the roads reporting to the Bureau for the year there were employed 234,819 persons. This number includes employes in all branches of the service, to wit, general administration, maintenance of way and structures, maintenance of equipment and conducting transportation. The number of employes in 1892 was 213,573; in 1893, 200,158; in 1894, 176,228; in 1895, 193,161; in 1896, 194,324. Of the marked increase in the number of employes a large proportion is reported by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, which reported 22,892 employes; the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, which reported 7,662 employes, and the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company, which reported 2,774 employes. It would seem, however, that a large increase is reported in addition to the number reported by the three companies named. The following ten companies report the largest number of employes:

Baltimore and Ohio, 22,892; Central Railroad of New Jersey, 7,662; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 13,692; Erie, 21,625; Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, 13,179; Lehigh Valley, 16,062; Pennsylvania, 51,050; Pennsylvania Company, 12,522; Philadelphia and Reading, 16,083; Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, 11,750; total, 186,517. The figures in this table relating to the Pennsylvania Railroad cover the lines of that road east of Erie and Pittsburgh, and do not include the Northern Central or the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore. These ten companies employ 79 per cent. of the employes of all the roads reporting, and pay them annual compensation amounting to $105,228,012. Of this large amount the Pennsylvania Railroad paid $29,275,237. The amount paid by these companies is nearly 80 per cent. of the entire amount paid by all the roads reporting. From the returns for the year it appears that there are 1,030 employes per 100 miles of road, which shows a marked contrast when compared with the number per 100 miles of road in the United States. In 1890 in the United States there were 479 employes per 100 miles of road; in 1891, there were 486; in 1892, 506; in 1893, 515; 1894, 444; in 1895, 441; in 1896, 454. These figures show clearly the magnitude of the importance of the railways to the laboring classes of the State, as a source of employment. The following table shows the classification of the railway employes of the United States for the years named, with reference to their employment.

NUMBER OF PASSENGERS CARRIED.

During the year there were 154,124,132 passengers carried earning revenue. The number carried one mile was 3,266,639,382. Of the total number the Pennsylvania carried 35,127,876; the Philadelphia and Reading 17,991,326; the Erie, 14,462,478; the Lehigh Valley, 4,866,202; the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, 4,360,903; the Pennsylvania Company, including all its lines east of Pittsburgh 5,551,210; the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, 8,221,252; the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, 6,983,705; Baltimore and Ohio, 8,344,078; Central Railroad of New Jersey, 12,789,178. These roads carried about 77 per cent. of the entire number reported to this Bureau. The New York, Chicago and St. Louis reports the average distance each passenger was carried to be 100 miles, while the average on the Pennsylvania was about 20 miles; on the Philadelphia and Reading, 13 miles; on the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, 27 miles; on the Baltimore and Ohio, 35 miles; on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, 14 miles; and on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, 46 miles. In the United States in 1890 there were 492,430,865 passengers carried; in 1891, 531,183,998; in 1892, 560,958,211; in 1893, 593,560,612; in 1894, 540,688,199; in 1895, 507,421,362; in 1896, 511,772,737. The largest number of passengers was carried in 1893. The reason for this is undoubtedly due to the impetus given the traffic by the World's Fair at Chicago. The total number of passengers carried by the companies reporting to this Bureau during the year is about 30 per cent. of the entire number carried in the United States for the year 1896. No data are at hand to show the number carried in the United States for the year 1897; hence comparisons with that year cannot be made.

TONNAGE.

In 1892 the total tonnage of the railways reporting to the Bureau was 290,480,712 tons; in 1893, it was 281,681,030 tons; in 1894, 233,250,687 tons; in 1895, 271,975,677 tons; in 1896, 298,690,528 tons; in 1897, 301,863,376 tons. The large increase for the present year is due to the addition to the list of reporting companies, of the Baltimore and Ohio, the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey and the New York, Ontario and Western, whose tonnage has not heretofore been included. Of the tonnage for 1897, 25,640,616 tons were made up of the products of agriculture; 7,432,094 tons from the product of animals; 193,654,602 tons from the products of mines; 16,223,980 tons from the products of forests; 41,097,256 tons from the products of manufactures; 6,098,616 tons of merchandise; and 11,716,212 tons miscellaneous. The table herewith shows the total tonnage for the years 1891 to 1897 under the several classifications indicated above.

RATES OF TRANSPORTATION.

As a general rule the rate per ton per mile is greater or less according to the length of the line and amount of business done, especially with reference to through transportation of commodities. In other words, the great corporations reporting to this Bureau carry their tonnage at a less rate per ton per mile than do the small corporations whose lines are short and whose annual tonnage admits of no comparison with that of the larger corporations. For instance, the rate per ton per mile on the Addison and Pennsylvania Road was 2.725, while on the Erie Road, a portion of whose line is in the same vicinity, was .609 per ton per mile. Of course, the small corporations, with their short lines, have an important public interest to conserve in the transportation of passengers and commodities, but it must be admitted that the great trunk lines conserve the interests of the public in the transportation of commodities at a much lower rate per ton per mile. The total tonnage during the year of all the steam roads making report was 301,863,376 tons. Last year the amount reported, not including the Baltimore and Ohio, the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the New York, Ontario and Western, except so far as their subsidiary lines lying within Pennsylvania made reports, was 298,690,528 tons. A corporation which largely participated in this tonnage and which carried its proportion of commodities at the lowest rate per ton per mile was the Beech Creek Railroad, whose average rate was .351 cents per ton per mile. Of the total tonnage amounting to 301,863,376 tons, 204,427,185 tons were carried by the following companies: Baltimore and Ohio, 18,716,655 tons; Central Railroad of New Jersey, 11,520,396 tons; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western 11,025,011 tons; Erie, 19,443,898 tons; Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, 13,394,312 tons; Lehigh Valley, 17,716,147 tons; Pennsylvania, 53,667,572 tons; Pennsylvania Company, 24,514,180 tons; Philadelphia and Reading, 19,996,750 tons; Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, 14,432,264 tons. All these great corporations transported their tonnage at a very low rate per ton per mile, and it is safe to say that nowhere else in the world have the people had their productions carried at so low a rate per ton per mile as in this country, and particularly in Pennsylvania. Heretofore in the annual reports, extended comparisons have been made of the rates of transportation in this and other states of the Union with those prevailing in foreign countries, and in every instance it has been found that the people of Pennsylvania and others along the lines of the roads that pass in or through this State enjoy the lowest rates in existence for the transportation of their products and also for the transportation of passengers. The data at hand establish this fact beyond question, and yet notwithstanding these statements, which can be so easily verified by any one who has a desire to be convinced, there are those who talk about the oppressive rates charged by railway corporations for the transportation of passengers and commodities.

EARNINGS AND INCOME.

A study of the annual reports made since 1892 will show how seriously the railway corporations have been affected by the business depression which has prevailed during these years. In the reports for the three preceding years reference has been made to the reduction in income both from passenger and freight traffic, and it is not necessary to dwell at length upon the figures that contribute to the conclusions arrived at on this subject, for every one will admit that the railway interests have suffered as much, if not more, during the period referred to, than any other interests. Fortunately there are signs of improvement disclosed by the reports made this year, and the data compiled gives promise that the railways will for the next year be able to exhibit figures which will show that some portion of the prosperous conditions that existed in 1892 have returned to the commercial interests of the country.

PASSENGER EARNINGS.

During the year the passenger earnings, which include not only receipts from passengers carried, but also revenue derived from the carrying of United States mail, expressage, etc., amount to $76,005,992. This amount, of course, is augmented by including returns from companies not heretofore included. Last year the amount was $63,174,339, which indicates an increase of $12,831,653. Thirteen companies report passenger earnings exceeding a million dollars each. They are the Baltimore and Ohio, $6,520,692; Central Railroad of New Jersey, $3,218,192; Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, $1,919,172; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, $4,405,753; Erie, $6,398,541; Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, $6,382,545; Lehigh Valley, $2,926,277; Northern Central, $1,366,163; Pennsylvania, $17,121,737; Pennsylvania Company, $4,119,311; Philadelphia and Reading, $4,189,392; Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, $4,745,539; Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, $5,197,540; a total of $68,510,584. In other words, these companies have earned from passenger travel more than 90 per cent. of the entire earnings of all railways making reports.

FREIGHT EARNINGS.

The total freight earnings for the year are reported at $224,560,821, as against $191,921,614 last year, showing an increase of $32,639,207. The ten companies showing the highest freight earnings are the Baltimore and Ohio, $19,061,430; Central Railroad of New Jersey, $9,- 320,952; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, $14,459,074; Erie, $21,826,632; Lake Shore and Michigan Southern $12,998,422; Lehigh Valley, $15,743,272; Pennsylvania, $43,020,796; Pennsylvania Company, $11,880,572; Philadelphia and Reading, $15,999,594; Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, $10,814,693, or a total of $175,125,437. It will be seen that these ten roads, constituting but a very small percentage of the total number, earned 78 per cent. of the entire amount of freight earnings for the year.

OTHER EARNINGS FROM OPERATIONS.

Among other sources of revenue of railway corporations are rentals, rights of way, etc. From these sources the earnings were $5,068,076 during the year, making a total revenue of $305,634,889. Last year the total was $259,786,453, showing an increase of $45,848,436. In addition to the income from operations, as above indicated, there have been received as income from interest on bonds, dividends on stocks, leases, etc., $32,875,001, or a total of receipts of $338,509,890. In 1892 the total receipts were $305,680,351; in 1893, $317,223,466; in 1894, $271,643,224; in 1895, $277,454,035; in 1896, $295,423,378. It will be seen that notwithstanding the fact that three very large corporations, viz: The Baltimore and Ohio, the Central Railway of New Jersey and the New York, Ontario and Western, participated in these figures, with reference to the total income and swelled the receipts to $338,509,890, yet the receipts for 1893, when these three corporations did not participate in the figures compiled, were within a few millions of dollars of the increased receipts from all sources, as above indicated. The gross income for the year 1896 from the operations of the railways in the United States, as shown by the data compiled by the statistician of the Interstate Commerce Commission was $1,150,169,376, and from other sources $129,024,731, or a total of $1,279,194,107.

ACCIDENTS.

During the year the number of passengers killed on the roads reporting to the Bureau was 36, the number injured 782; total, 818. These figures indicate that about 4½ per cent. of the casualties among passengers on railways proved fatal. Among the employes there were 509 killed and 10,591 injured, or a total of 11,100. These figures indicate about the same percentage of fatal casualties among employes as exist among passengers. Of other persons there were 1,469 killed and 2,114 injured, or a total of 3,583. These figures with reference to casualties among persons other than passengers or employes indicate that about 41 per cent. of the total number are fatal. The most startling thing with reference to casualties on railways is the number of persons killed or injured who are not connected with the railroad either as passengers or employes. It is not difficult to read between the lines as to the direct cause, in many cases at least, which has led to the death or injury of these 3,583 persons. No one will have the hardihood to dispute the assertion that many of these persons have met their death or been injured by reason of a too liberal use of intoxicating drink. Many have been killed, it is true, at grade crossings, but they constitute but a small fraction of the total number. Another remarkable feature of the matter is that while among passengers and employes the fatal casualties have been only $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the total number, among other persons they have been 41 per cent. A large percentage of this class have been found lying upon the tracks and have been run over by trains. This accounts for the high percentage of fatalities. In ten years there have been almost a sufficient number of casualties both fatal and non-fatal of this class of persons on the railways reporting to this Bureau to equal the entire population of the Capital City of Pennsylvania at the last census. This will give some idea of the great number who are killed or injured either as trespassers upon the roads at grade crossings or in stealing rides upon freight trains, or who in some other way place themselves in positions that result in death or injury. It is claimed that a very large percentage of these persons adopt this method of committing suicide. In comparing the number of accidents that have occurred on the roads making report for this year with the data compiled last year, it must be remembered that the Baltimore and Ohio, the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the New York, Ontario and Western have added a large number of casualties which were not included in former reports. The Baltimore and Ohio reports 245 passengers, employes and other persons killed, and 1,746 injured; the Central Railroad of New Jersey reports 76 killed and 371 injured, and the New York, Ontario and Western reports 23 killed and 26 injured; or a total of 344 killed and 2,143 injured. If we deduct these casualties from the total number reported, and thereby consider only those that occurred upon the roads which reported last year, it would be found that the percentage of casualties to the number of passengers, employes and other persons, shows more favorable conditions than have existed for several years. For instance, last year there were 37 passengers killed, while this year the number is 36. This number includes those killed on the three roads not heretofore reporting. Last year the number injured was 834; this year it is 782. While this favorable condition is exhibited with reference to casualties among passengers and employes, we find a reverse condition with reference to other persons killed and injured, for last year there were 1,219 killed, while this year the number is 1,469; last year there were 1,919 injured, this year the number is 2,114; or a total last year of killed and injured of 3,138, as against 3,583 this year. The Pennsylvania Railroad, which keeps a complete record of accidents to passengers, employes and other persons, reports 99 employes killed and 2,606 injured. Here again we find an improved condition, as last year this company reported 152 killed and 3,129 injured. The following table shows the number of passengers, employes and other persons killed and injured on the nine leading roads named.

Summary of Accidents on the nine Railway Corporations mentioned for the year ending June 30, 1897.

It will be seen from an examination of this table that of the total number of fatal casualties 28 occurred on these nine roads, and of the total number injured, 646. Of course, the greater the business done by a railway corporation the greater the liability to accident among employes. This feature of the case is intensified according to whether or not the road is supplied with the best equipment and the most approved safety appliances for the protection of its employes and passengers against accident. The stability and perfection of equipment used are factors in relation to the safety of passengers in transitu. In other words, the more perfect the equipment, the more substantial the roadbed, the heavier the rails upon which the cars move, the less chance there is for accident; and, of course, the reverse is true, that where the roadbed is in bad condition, the rails light and worn, the equipment old and unserviceable, the greater the liability to accident. The following table will be found of interest as showing the casualties to passengers, employes and other persons on the nine leading roads referred to. These roads carry so large a percentage of the passengers, and employ so many persons in their service, that the comparisons will be found of marked interest. The table covers the years 1891 to 1897, inclusive.

Summary showing the total accidents of the nine railways mentioned in preceding table for the years ending June 30, respectively, as indicated.

Years.	Passengers.		Employes.		Other Persons.		Total.
	Killed.	Injured.	Killed.	Injured.	Killed.	Injured.	Killed.	Injured.
1891,	34	366	329	4,374	632	920	996	5,660
1892,	24	535	349	5,473	740	1,023	1,113	7,031
1893,	49	580	480	7,181	780	1,105	1,319	8,876

1896,	27	591	334	9,367	833	1,372	1,244	11,330
1897,	28	646	399	9,252	1,170	1,716	1,597	11,614

During the year, as before stated, the number of passengers carried was 154,124,132. Of this number 36 were killed, or 1 for every 4,281,226 carried. The returns for last year show that 1 passenger was killed for every 3,468,499 carried. This indicates an improved condition with reference to the safety of passengers in transitu. The total number of passengers injured during the year was 782, of 1 for every 187,089 carried. Last year the number injured was 1 for every 141,887 carried. It will be seen from these figures that the percentage of fatalities among passengers in railway accidents has been considerable less during the present year than it was last year. Among the employes, embracing 234,819, there were 509 killed, or 1 for every 461. Last year there was 1 killed for every 406. The number of employes injured during the year was 10,591, or one for every 22. Last year there was 1 injured for every 17. These comparisons also show that there has been a greater freedom from accidents, both fatal and non-fatal, among employes during the present year than during the year 1896. Referring to the report of the statistician of the Interstate Commerce Commission which shows the casualties among railway passengers throughout the United States it is found that 1 passenger was killed for every 2,827,474 carried, and 1 injured for every 178,132. Among the railway employes in the United States last year there was 1 killed to every 444 employed, and 1 injured to every 28. These figures also indicate more favorable conditions both with reference to the safety of passengers and employes on the railways reporting to this Bureau than existed in the United States in 1896. The total number of employes killed in the United States last year was 1,861, the total number injured 29,969; the total number of passengers killed was 181; total number injured 2,873; the total number of other persons killed, including those trespassing on the tracks or in the yards of railway companies, was 4,406, total number injured 5,845. The following table shows the number of persons killed and injured each year from 1888 to 1896 inclusive, on the entire railway system of the United States.

COMPLAINTS.

Among the duties devolving upon the Department of Internal Affairs, the law requires that there shall be exercised a watchful supervision over the railway, manufacturing and other business corporations of the State to see that they confine themselves strictly within their corporate limits, and in case any citizen or citizens shall charge under oath any corporation with having transcended its corporate functions or of encroaching upon the rights of individual citizens, there shall be a careful investigation made of the charges, and if it is found that the matters complained of are beyond the ordinary province of individual redress, the fact shall be certified to the Attorney General for his action. During the year covered by this report there were two complaints formulated and filed against steam railway corporations. One was that of Mr. C. F. Hartwell, of Venango county, made against the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad Company. In this complaint the railroad company was charged with having transcended its corporate powers in that it was engaged in the mining of coal within the limits of Pennsylvania, in violation of article 17 of the Constitution. It was also complained that the railroad company was attempting to evade the provisions of the Constitution which prohibit a railroad company from engaging in a mining business, by carrying on its operations of mining through another corporation known as the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company, and that its ownership of the stock of the last named company constituted an engagement in the mining business which is prohibited by the article of the Constitution referred to. The proceedings with reference to the consideration of this complaint, and the conclusions arrived at, are fully set forth in the record, a transcript of which is printed herewith.

The other case was not determined by the Department until after the close of the fiscal year, but as it is of some importance it is published in this report. The complaint was made by L. L. Hunter, of Warren county against the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railroad Company. It was alleged in the complaint that the complainant was a large shipper of bark over the lines of the road named; that some 40 car loads of hemlock bark had been consigned by him over the lines of that road to the Queen City Tanning Company of Titusville; that when he had made request of the agent of the railroad company for their weights of the cars, in order that he might ascertain the weight of the bark that had been shipped, he was informed by the railroad company's representative that such weights could not be given. This was considered sufficient grounds upon which to lodge complaint against the railroad company. The proceedings relative to the consideration of this complaint are fully shown in the complaint, correspondence, and the final action of the railroad company with reference to the request of this office to give Mr. Hunter, the complainant, the information asked for.

C. F. Hartwell vs. The Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company.

On January 12, 1897, a complaint was filed in the Department of Internal Affairs by Deputy Attorney General John P. Elkin, as follows:

Oil City, Pa., June 6, 1896.

To the Honorable Daniel H. Hastings, Governor of the State of Pennsylvania:

Your orator complains and says:

I. That the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania having lines of railroad commencing at Clearfield, in Clearfield county and Walston, in Jefferson county, both in the State of Pennsylvania, and extending to Buffalo, N. Y., and Rochester, N. Y., as terminal points in the State of New York. That the principal office of said railroad is at Rochester, N. Y., with Arthur G. Yates as President, and Adrian Iselin, Jr., Vice President.

II. That the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania engaged in mining bituminous coal and manufacturing coke, the operations being located upon the said Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway and over which its products are transported.

III. That your orator avers and believes that the capital stock of the said Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company is owned and controlled by the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company, in violation of the Constitution of this Commonwealth, viz: Section 5 of article XVII. That in an interview published in the New York Tribune May 12, 1896, Adrian Iselin, Jr., the Vice President of aforesaid railroad, is reported as saying "The properties were bought for the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company, which owns all the stock of the coal and iron company, and the money for the purchase has already been provided;" the aforesaid reference to the coal and iron company undoubtedly means the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company, it being the brief manner of expressing the name. Therefore your orator prays that proceedings through a writ in quo warranto be commenced as the alleged matters are injurious to the public interest, against public policy and illegal.

C. F. HARTWELL.

Sworn and subscribed before me this 6th day of June, A. D. 1896.

GEORGE G. SNOWDEN,

Notary Public.

(Endorsement.)

"Respectfully referred to Secretary of Internal Affairs for investigation as per request of petitioner.

JNO. P. ELKIN,

Deputy Attorney General."

This complaint had been filed in the Executive Department in the month of June, 1896, and referred to the Attorney General's Department and by the request of the complainant, under the date above mentioned, filed in the Department of Internal Affairs for investigation. Its consideration here is ab initio, the same as if it had been filed here in the first instance, the authority for investigation being imposed upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs, by section 19, article IV, and section 2, article XVII of the Constitution, and by the 4th section of the act of General Assembly, approved the 11th day of May, 1874.

On the 13th of January, 1897, the following communication was addressed to the complainant:

"January 13, 1897.

Mr. C. F. Hartwell, Oil City, Pa.:

Dear Sir: Referring to your petition of June 6, 1896, addressed to the Hon. Daniel H. Hastings, Governor of the Commonwealth, and by him referred to the Attorney General, who yesterday referred the same to this Department for investigation, I beg to ask whether or not you would like to be heard in regard to the matter, and whether or not you have witnesses you desire to produce and have their evidence taken. If so, state when and where your convenience will be conserved by holding a conference.

Very truly yours,

ISAAC B. BROWN,
Superintendent."

No answer having been received to this communication, the following message was sent to Mr. Hartwell:

"Harrisburg, January 27, 1897.

C. F. Hartwell, Esq., Oil City, Pa.:

I wrote you under date of January 13, regarding conference on your complaint against the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company, asking if you desired to be heard in reference to said complaint or if you had witnesses to present, but have had no reply. I now suggest that I will be in Corry on Monday next at 10 a. m., where you can be heard or have testimony taken if desired. Wire reply.

ISAAC B. BROWN,
Superintendent Bureau of Railways."

In answer the following telegram was received:

"Oil City, Pa., 27th January, 1897.

Isaac B. Brown, Harrisburg:

Will be pleased to meet you there if nothing prevents.

C. F. HARTWELL."

After consultation with Mr. M. E. Olmsted, representing the railway company, it was learned that neither the general solicitor of the defendant company, nor Mr. M. E. Olmsted could be present at Corry at the time appointed, and as Mr. Hartwell's telegram gave room for doubt about his appearance, it was decided to fix the place of hearing at Harrisburg, on the 6th day of February, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the Department of Internal Affairs, and notice was given accordingly.

The following letter was sent to Mr. Hartwell, the complainant:

"January 26, 1897.

Mr. C. F. Hartwell, Oil City, Pa.:

Dear Sir: I regret to notify you that I cannot arrange the meeting at Corry next Monday, in regard to the complaint against the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad Company; but I have arranged for a hearing in the Bureau of Railways in the Department of Internal Affairs at Harrisburg, at 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, February 6, at which time you are respectfully requested to be present, when you will be heard and the testimony you may desire to offer will be considered.

Very truly yours,

ISAAC B. BROWN,
Superintendent."

To this communication no reply was received until February 5. when the following letter was received:

"Oil City, February 4, 1897.

Isaac B. Brown, Superintendent, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Dear Sir: I find it will be impossible for me to be in Harrisburg on Saturday of this week. I have in preparation an additional affidavit and collateral evidence bearing upon the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad, which I will forward on Saturday. I take it you desire to have a fair investigation of this matter, as it is made your especial duty by law, and I would suggest that if it is necessary for me to go to Harrisburg that I name such time as will suit my convenience.

Yours truly,

C. F. HARTWELL."

Answering this letter the following telegram was transmitted to the complainant:

"Harrisburg, February 5, 1897.

C. F. Hartwell, Oil City, Pa.:

I regret you can't be here to-morrow for the hearing in the case against the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad Company. Will you please advise me by wire when you can appear and I will endeavor to continue the case to a time convenient to you. Answer immediately.

ISAAC B. BROWN."

No reply was received to this telegram, and at 10 o'clock a. m., February 6, 1897, Mr. M. E. Olmsted and Mr. C. H. McCauley, attorneys for defendant, appeared with officials of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company. No appearance by complainant or by counsel. The following motion was made on the part of defendant:

"In reapplication of C. F. Hartwell to the Governor of Pennsylvania for writ of quo warranto.

Now, February 6, 1897, counsel for the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company move to dismiss the application for the following reasons:

First. The application is made to the Governor of Pennsylvania.

Second. The application is by a private individual who seeks to redress matters alleged to be against the public interest and public policy.

Third. The applicant is not a stockholder, officer or creditor of the company, has no interest in the alleged injury sought to be redressed, and could not prosecute the writ, if granted. He is not even a shipper upon the company's railroad, and never has been.

Fourth. The allegations contained in the application, if true, do not establish any cause of action upon which judgment of ouster could be entered upon quo warranto proceedings. Nor afford proper ground for any proceedings whatever.

M. E. OLMSTED,
Of Counsel for Baltimore, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company.

C. H. McCAULEY,
General Solicitor."

The first, second and third points were not passed upon, and the case was considered under the fourth point. Whether the acts alleged to have been committed by the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company constitute in themselves a violation of the Constitution and the laws of the Commonwealth, and if so, whether under the sections of the Constitution and the act of 1874, the defendant company should be certified to the Attorney General for his action. Having given due consideration to the points alleged in the complaint, and the law and decisions applicable thereto, the motion to dismiss the case was sustained.

The facts in this case, as alleged in the complaint and disclosed by the reports made to the Bureau of Railways of the Department of Internal Affairs, and the financial reports filed in the Auditor General's Department, and undisputed by either party, are as follows:

The Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company is a corporation duly chartered under the laws of this Commonwealth and the laws of the State of New York, with its principal office in the latter State, and by virtue of such charter it is authorized to conduct the the business of a common carrier within this Commonwealth. The Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company is also a corporation duly chartered under the laws of this Commonwealth, and is authorized to conduct the business of mining coal, iron ore, etc. It has a capital stock of $4,000,000, of which the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company owns substantially the entire amount, or $3,995,000, leaving but $5,000 owned by other parties, which amount, it may be presumed, is held by residents of Pennsylvania to enable this corporation to comply with the laws of Pennsylvania as to the residence of its directors. No allegations as to facts or conditions are made in the complaint beyond those above referred to, and as no evidence has been offered either in support of the allegations in the complaint, or to show additional facts for consideration, the only questions for determination are the following:

Do the laws of Pennsylvania authorize the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company to own the capital stock, or any part thereof, of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company? and if so, does such ownership constitute a violation of the Constitution of Pennsylvania?

These questions have been substantially determined by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in the adjudications found in the exhaustive opinion delivered in the case of the Commonwealth vs. The New York, Lake Erie and Western Railway Company, reported in 132 Pennsylvania State Reports, page 591. The doctrine there declared must be conclusive as to the contention in this case, unless there shall be a reversal of the judgment of the Supreme Court on the law as affecting the matters at issue.

In the case referred to, the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railway Company was a corporation chartered in a similar manner to that of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Company. It was the owner of the stock, or a large portion thereof, of the North Western Mining and Exchange Company, a corporation organized under the laws of Pennsylvania in the same manner that the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company was organized. The relations therefore between the railroad company and the mining company are substantially the same in both cases. From the opinion delivered, and the laws cited, it is seen that railroad and canal corporations were authorized by law to invest their moneys in the stocks and bonds of mining corporations, and such authority was given for the encouragement of the mining industry of the Commonwealth, assuming that individual enterprise would be unable to develop the mining industry of the State as rapidly as the needs of commerce required. The act approved April 15, 1869 (P. L., page 31), gives a clear expression of the intent of the Legislature, as disclosed in the following paragraph:

“That it shall and may be lawful for railroad and canal companies to aid corporations authorized by law to develop the coal, iron, lumber and other material interests in this Commonwealth by the purchase of their capital stock and bonds, or either of them, by the guaranty of or agreement to purchase the principal and interest or either of such bonds.”

It is not necessary to search further to find the authority which railway corporations enjoyed with reference to the purchase of stocks and bonds of mining companies, for this reference alone is sufficient to show that such purchase of stocks and bonds is entirely within the Legislative authority given, and cannot by any means be construed as ultra vires.

It is true the contention in those proceedings was to effect an es.

cheat of the lands held by the mining company, the stock of which in its entirety was held by the common carrier. The holding of this stock was alleged to be a violation of the act of 1855 which prohibited railway companies from owning and controlling lands other than those necessary for conducting the business of transportation, but it was declared by Judge Paxson that holding or owning of the stock of the mining company by the common carrier did not constitute an ownership by the common carrier of the land, the title to which was held by the mining corporation, and only gave the common carrier the control of the use of lands so held by the mining company.

The contention in this case, however, is with reference to the violation of section 5, article XVII of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

“No incorporated company doing the business of a common carrier shall directly or indirectly prosecute or engage in mining or manufacturing articles for transportation over its work; nor shall such company directly or indirectly engage in any other business than that of common carrier, or hold or acquire lands, freehold or leasehold directly or indirectly, except such as shall be necessary for carrying on its business.”

If the holding or owning of the stock of a mining company by a common carrier does not violate the act of 1855, with reference to acquiring or ownership of real estate, how then does the ownership of the stock of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company by the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company constitute a violation of section 5, article XVII of the Constitution above recited? Certainly the legal sequence from the doctrine enunciated in the opinion of Judge Paxson in the case cited is, that the ownership of the stock of the mining company by the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company is not prosecuting or engaging in the mining industry within the meaning of section 5, article XVII of the Constitution. The logic of Judge Paxson's opinion points to no other conclusion.

In view therefore of the adjudication of the question involved in this complaint in the doctrine enunciated by the highest tribunal of the State, this department declines to certify this case to the Attorney General for his action.

Railroad Company.

Tidioute, Pa., August 2, 1897.

Hon. Isaac B. Brown, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Dear Sir: At the suggestion of the Interstate Commerce Commission, I wish to refer the following to you.

I have shipped 33 cars of hemlock bark to the Queen City Tannery, Titusville, Pa., and at the request of the tannery people the railroad company (The Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway Company) will not furnish me the weights of these cars of bark. Am I not, as a shipper, entitled to the weights of my bark and can I not compel the railroad company, to furnish me the weights. If there is such a law please refer us to the same and where it can be found.

The bark was consigned to the tannery people, they buy it for so much a cord of 2,200 pounds F. O. B. cars here.

Thanking you in advance for this information. I remain.

Yours respectfully,

L. L. HUNTER, R. B.

Harrisburg, Pa., August 3, 1897.

Mr. L. L. Hunter, Tidioute, Pa.:

Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter with reference to complaint against the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway Company. Your attention is called to the act of 1874 relative to complaints against corporations. You should make your complaint in the form of an affidavit which when received at this Department will have prompt attention. There is no special law with reference to the matter referred to, but I would say that the railway company can be required to give you the weights you desire, as indicated in your letter.

Very truly yours,

ISAAC B. BROWN,
Superintendent.

Tidioute, Pa., August 16, 1897.

Isaac B. Brown, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Dear Sir: I have been unable to get weights of bark shipped by me to the Queen City Tannery, from the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway Company, although I have asked the general freight agent, for same by wire and by letter, so send you herewith affidavit as requested.

Yours respectfully,

L. L. HUNTER.

P. A.

Before me a notary public in and for the county of Warren, personally appeared L. L. Hunter, who being sworn according to law deposed and saith that he has requested the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway Company to furnish him the weights of bark cars shipped to the Queen City Tannery, but has been refused the weights by the above named railroad company. He further adds that he is the shipper of bark, and that the bark was shipped to the Queen City Tannery, Titusville, Pa., from L. L. Hunter, Tidioute, Pa.

Mr. L. L. Hunter, Tidioute, Pa.:

Dear Sir: I have received your sworn statement under date of August 16, 1897, in which you complain of certain things against the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railroad Company. While the statement is not as full and explicit as we should like to have it, I will take action in the matter at once by asking the railroad company to furnish the information you desire. If the request is not complied with, I will take further action.

Very truly yours,

Mr. Robert Bell, General Superintendent Western New York and Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir: A complaint has been filed in this department by L. L. Hunter, of Tidioute, Pa., against your company, in which it is claimed that he has shipped 33 car loads of hemlock bark to the Queen City Tannery at Titusville, over your line, and that your company refuses to give him the weights of these car load lots.

It occurs to me that as a shipper and consignor of merchandise Mr. Hunter is entitled to the information asked for, and unless there are some misrepresentations in the complaint filed, I would suggest that your company furnishes the information he desires.

Kindly advise me at Corry, Pa., not later than Saturday, what action you will take with reference to this matter.

Very truly yours,
ISAAC B. BROWN,
Superintendent.

Buffalo, N. Y., August 19, 1897.

Mr. Isaac B. Brown, Superintendent, Bureau of Railways of Pennsylvania, Corry, Pa.:

Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of August 18, in regard to claim of Mr. L. L. Hunter that our company refuses to furnish him weights of certain carload lots of freight shipped from Tidioute and in reply would state that the matter in question belongs entirely to our freight department and your letter was referred to our general freight agent who advised in reply as follows:

"The W. N. Y. & P. Ry., has been served with notice from the Queen City Tanning Company notifying this company not to furnish statements of weights to shippers of bark consigned to the Queen City Tanning Company, Titusville. In accordance with that notice we advised Mr. Hunter that we were not at liberty to comply with his request to furnish him with the weights he desired. We also advised him that we would take the matter up with the Queen City Tanning Company, and if they would waive their objections we would furnish him the weights. This action was taken, but the Queen City Tanning Company, have not as yet modified their instructions.

The W. N. Y. & P. Ry., furnishes the consignees with statements of weights on the paid bills for freight charges on these shipments, and we are advised by the superintendent of the tannery through our agent at Titusville that the tannery furnishes Mr. Hunter with these paid freight bills, and as he therefore has the railroad weights they see no necessity for our duplicating same, and therefore their instructions still stand.

As we understand the matter there is a controversy between the two parties and we desire to avoid taking any part in same, and having already furnished consignees with the information desired we think the parties should settle the controversy between themselves without reference to the railroad company."

Yours truly,

R. BELL,
Genl. Supt. H.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS.

The tenth annual convention of Railway Commissioners was held in the city of St. Louis, March 11th and 12th, 1897. The convention was composed of the Railway Commissioners of the several states of the Union, or other State officials having supervision over the affairs of railways, and the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States. Most of the states in the Union were represented, and the subjects brought before the convention for consideration are set forth in the following official call, which was printed for the assembling of the convention.

CALL FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION OF RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

By authority of the convention of railroad commissioners, held at Washington, D. C., on the 19th and 20th days of May, 1896, and pursuant to a resolution thereof fixing the date for the next annual meeting of the same, notice is hereby given by the undersigned committee, designated for that purpose, that the ninth annual convention of said commissioners will be held at Planters' Hotel, St. Louis, Mo., on Tuesday, May 11, 1897, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

The railroad commissioners of all states, and State officers charged with any duty in the supervision of railroads, are respectfully requested to attend and participate in the discussion of such topics as may come before the convention. The Association of American Railway Accounting Officers is also invited to attend, or send delegates to the convention, and join in the consideration of such questions of special interest to their association as may arise.

At the last convention committees were appointed on the following subjects and directed to report to the next convention:

- I. Uniform classification.
- II. Railway statistics.
- III. Powers, duties, and actual work of State railroad commissions.
- IV. Legislation.
- V. Safety appliances.
- VI. Delays attendant upon enforcing orders of railroad commissions by procedure in the courts.

Members of former conventions are entitled to participate in the discussion of subjects at the coming meeting. The various State commissions should be represented by full boards, as far as possible, and to that end all railroad commissioners are earnestly requested to attend the coming meeting.

ISAAC B. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, Chairman.

EDWARD A. MOSELEY,
Secretary, Interstate Commerce Commission,
Secretary.

JOSEPH FLORY, of Missouri,
Chairman, Committee on Arrangements.

A study of the subjects referred to in the above call carries with it the conviction of the importance of the different railway questions that are considered by officers having supervision over the public service rendered by the common carriers of the country.

The most important paper presented to the convention was read by Mr. Jeffery, President of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company, who chose for his theme, "The people and their railways." It was one of the most fair and able arguments ever presented to a public assembly, or that ever found its way into the public reports of any state. Its conciseness; its superb diction; the fairness exhibited in handling the questions existing between the common carrier and the shipper; the duty of the railroad to the public and the duty of the government to the railroad all clearly showed that Mr. Jeffery, although engaged in the railway service from his boyhood to mature manhood, had discovered that the railways of the United States have a public duty to perform, and in the discharge of that public duty must be subservient to a proper supervision on the part of the State as to commerce within the State, and to the United States as to commerce between the states. The duties of the supervising authority representing the State or Nation to the railroads was also fairly and carefully handled by Mr. Jeffery, and carried strong conviction of his sincerity in all the assertions made in reference to the important subjects discussed.

Several other papers were read upon different features of the transportation problem, as indicated by the program above referred to. The Superintendent of this Bureau was selected to preside over the deliberations of the convention, and by assignment of the committee on program opened the convention with the following address. Its appearance in this report is for the purpose of giving the people of Pennsylvania an idea of the subjects considered at the National Convention of Railway Commissioners.

Address by Hon. Isaac B. Brown, Superintendent Bureau of Railways of Pennsylvania, chairman of the convention.

The chairman addressed the convention as follows:

The CHAIRMAN. In assuming the chair to preside over the deliberations of this ninth annual convention, composed of the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the State Railway Commissioners, and other officials of the several States clothed with powers of supervision over railways, so far as they relate to the public service, it seems proper to refer briefly to what has been accomplished by these conferences in some respects, what advancement has been made in others, and to offer some suggestions as to the important questions which are yet to be met in the development of transportation interests.

On the 5th of March, 1889, the first national convention or conference was held in the city of Washington. All of the Interstate Commerce Commissioners, with their secretary, and other officers, were present, as were also representatives from the States of Alabama, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin. together with the executive committee of the Association of the American Railway Accounting Officers. State and national supervision or control of railways was in a chaotic condition. Confusion as to lines and means of procedure existed in a perplexing degree. A conference appeared to be desirable, if not a necessity, to the end that a consensus of opinion might lead to intelligent and harmonious action. The wisdom that directed the holding of the first conference, and subsequently the annual conventions, has not been and never can be questioned. The results have been largely satisfactory and, it may be assumed, beneficial both to the common carrier and the shipper.

When the first conference was held there was no thought of providing for annual conventions, but it was found that the subjects referred to committees were of such great importance and required so much study and consideration that intelligent reports could not be prepared and submitted during the short time allotted to the session, and therefore a subsequent convention was necessary, at which reports of committees might be received and considered. A discussion on the subject led to the unanimous adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the members of this convention that provision should be made for annual conventions of the railroad commissioners of the several States and the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to be held at such place as may be agreed upon, with a view of perfecting uniform legislation and regulations concerning the supervision of railroads.

The first conference was presided over by that eminent jurist, Judge Cooley, whose utterances on the work of the convention and the subjects considered were characterized by wisdom of the highest order. The interest and importance of the conference is shown in some degree by the programme, which was as follows:

1. Railway statistics, with special reference to the formation of a uniform system of reporting.
2. Classification of freight, its simplification and unification.
3. Railway legislation, how to obtain harmony in.
4. Railway construction, should regulation be provided for?
5. And such other topics affecting State and interstate commerce as may be brought forward by members of the convention.
6. Heating, and lighting cars, automatic car coupling, continuous train brakes, etc.
7. Railway taxation.
8. Oral discussion on each subject.

The problems which seemed most necessary for solution were those relating to railway statistics, so that uniformity of reports might be secured; classification of freight, so that the same might be adopted by all railways; and the harmonizing of State and national laws on all those subjects where uniformity is necessary to enable officials to move along similar lines of action in the discharge of their respective duties. An interchange of views at the convention indicated that harmony of legislation in the several States was entirely wanting. The official of one State who is charged with the performance of a duty or is required to compile data for publication and is assured that officials of other States charged with similar duties are being guided by the same rules of action, moves forward with much more certainty and satisfaction than he could otherwise. On the questions pertaining to railway statistics, classification of freights, etc., so necessary to have as a guide or basis in other lines of duty, the convention devoted its best thought, and it is not assuming too much to say that there was then a great advance made in the effort to arrive at a common understanding and the adoption of uniform methods, which, when put in force, led to better and more accurate results than had ever before been acquired. Year after year the system of blanks for annual reports has been improved, and it may now be said to be substantially perfect. As a result of this, data compiled in one State may be safely compared with that of most of the other States of the Union without doing violence to facts. Simple as may now seem the question of ascertainment of mileage of railways, yet without an agreement as to its classification with reference to the lines owned, lines operated, lines leased, proprietary roads, lines jointly owned, and trackage rights, errors of no small importance were sure to find their way into official records, and their value was lessened in proportion to the extent of the errors thus made. Uniform classification of freight was then, as now, a necessity, and will continue to remain so, in the adjustment of rates. Without classification, equity can scarcely find lodgment in official action. A discussion of the details of classification of capital stock, bonded and floating indebtedness, receipts, operating expenses, all essential, need not now be made, for we all understand them alike, but it is proper to say that this common understanding has come about through these conferences. The laws of several of the States have been amended, so that there is not only a great assimilation, but the tendency in all is toward uniformity of regulation.

If no other favorable results have flowed from these annual conferences, the advancement referred to abundantly repays the energy expended. Congress, largely through the recommendations of these conventions, has passed laws providing for safety appliances mainly for the protection of railway employes throughout the country. If that "consummation devoutly to be wished for" of establishing rules for determining "a reasonable rate" has not been attained, it is a fact that material advancement has been made, and it is not presumptuous to predict that conservative thought will lead the way to future success.

On the question of rates, it has been said by some that the life of commerce depends upon low rates of transportation. To those who still clamor for lower rates on the commodities and the productions of our people than those now existing, a reasonable rate seems to be a synonym for lower rates, forgetting that there are two sides to be considered in arriving at what in equity can be denominated a reasonable rate. Congress, legislatures, boards of trade, boards of commerce, and indeed, shippers ought to be able to discover that a reasonable rate does not mean that commerce shall be transported at so low a rate as to result in loss to the common carrier and finally end in bankruptcy. In other words, a reasonable rate is one that will yield a just income for the service rendered by the carrier, taking into consideration necessary capitalization, expenses of operation, and maintenance. An interpretation of what is meant by a reasonable rate which does not carry with it fairness to both shipper and common carrier is not worthy of a place in the law reports or public records. Rates of transportation are factors in arriving at the cost of commodities to the consumer, for to cost of production must be added the cost of transportation and distribution; and it would seem, therefore, that while low rates are always to be desired, yet of far more importance than low rates is the uniformity of rates, ample facilities, and freedom from all discrimination. If rates of transportation could be established on some plan by which distance should cease to be a factor in determining the cost of transportation, the same as that in vogue by the Government in the conveyance of mail, it is possible that the rest of the rate problem would be easy of solution. Under such a condition prices of all standard products would be uniform throughout the country, and the price of a ton of anthracite coal in Chicago ought then to be the same as in any city of the State in which it is mined. Impracticability, however, seems to lie at the threshold of even the consideration of such a proposition. Judicial determination as to what is a reasonable rate must not be expected to be equitable in all cases, for the judge, while understanding law, may be entirely wanting in experience as to the cost of construction, equipment, operation, maintenance, and management of a railway and be often misled by testimony submitted for his consideration.

Probably the surest way to arrive at equity in establishing a rate is through the line of extended experience and the conservative exercise of sound and intelligent discretion by proper officials. Indeed, it seems the only way that will lead to more perfect results in the way of establishing reasonable rates. It certainly seems more plausible than any of the plans yet suggested. Even with the ripest experience and the exercise of conservatism in every official act, the railway commissioner finds difficulties in arriving at a solution of rate problems, for in his way stand questions of excessive cost of construction, water capitalization, reckless financiering, and expensive administration. In the rapid development of railway transportation the new inventions and the economies introduced in construction, operation, and maintenance give assurance that the future will unfold new ideas in all that pertains to railway management and railway financing and possibly the discovery or exercise of other forces or powers of locomotion. These things, together with the advancements already made, render these national conferences desirable, if not actually necessary.

If there is any one question which seems difficult of solution and yet which ought to receive the wisest consideration, not only by officials charged with the duties of supervision, but also by the lawmaking powers, it is the abatement or strict regulation of the use of shippers' cars in the transportation of commodities. One can scarcely study the subject without being appalled at the demoralizing influences that flow from the practice now in vogue. It is the more alarming for the reason that the use of shippers' cars seems to be on the increase. It is to a great degree a crime against the commerce of the nation and many individual enterprises, besides being destructive in a most marked degree to the financial interests of the common carriers. The original idea that the railway, so far as the uses of the public are concerned, was but a turnpike on which persons might not only have their commodities transported, but also their vehicles drawn, belongs to those decades when railway development was in its infancy. A better plan would be to adopt and enforce the most stringent regulations to the end that all railways be required to furnish at all times and to all persons abundant and equal facilities and conveniences for the prompt and speedy shipment of all products seeking transportation to our markets. The greatest agency the world has ever known in advancing civilization, the greatest promoter in developing the material interests in this country, or in any other country, and that has here leveled the great mountain barriers and placed the enterprises of the Pacific Coast in close proximity with those on the Atlantic, is the railway; and yet rebates and discriminations in the use of shippers' cars have made colossal fortunes for a few and have ruined and driven to the wall in business failure many of our most loyal citizens. In railway operations to-day the thing which contributes most to the interest of the favored few and destroys the ambitions and properties of many others exists in a cruel and intensified form where a manufacturer or a producer of articles of commerce has his own cars in which to ship his own productions to market. He is assured of an enormously large income from the railway for the investment in his cars, and is also enabled to place his products in market rapidly and at such times as will enable him to realize quickly from advancing prices in the market affecting his own particular kind of production, while his less fortunate competitor, who is not supplied with his own cars, must depend upon such facilities as the railway corporations may, according to the caprice of their local representatives, see fit to furnish.

Millions of money are annually lost to railway stockholders by these uses, which amount to abuses, arising from the use of shippers' cars, while thousands of railway freight cars are going into decay in the yards and on the sidings. It is not saying too much when the declaration is made that some railway sequestrators' services would not have been in such great demand during the last few years of depression had the railways been able to use their own equipment rather than pay large sums as rentals for shippers' cars. No student conversant with this feature of the transportation problem can have any other conviction than that the use of shippers' cars furnishes the most prolific source of the discrimination that now stand in the way of securing equitable practices in the transportation of commerce. The Congress and our legislative bodies will not have done their respective duties until this practice, amounting in fact to a public offense, has been abated or restricted. There are many subjects to which your attention might be called and which might properly receive your consideration at this time, but there is one feature connected with the railway problem which more particularly affects railway investments that should receive the attention, either now or at some subsequent convention, of those who constitute this body, and this relates to the construction of competing lines of railway or construction of lines into territory where the possibility or probability is that there is no general public interest to be conserved by such construction, and no hope of a proper return for the investment which may be made in such new construction.

If a line of railway is already constructed and can be made susceptible of conserving every interest along its line, and there is only a possibility of securing a fair return for the investment made, it would seem entirely proper that the State should protect it from competition, especially where the State adjusts its rates of transportation to an extent that its income is limited, say to 6 per cent. interest on its capitalization or on cost of road and equipment. In other words, if the line and equipment have cost, say $20,000,000, and having regard to the necessary expenses of operation and maintenance and the maximum receipts possible, the State should adjust rates to a point where the corporation would be able to realize only 6 per cent. on the investment, then is there not a duty resting on the State, as long as such conditions continue, to protect the corporation from competition? A competing line would require an investment of, say $20,000,000, making a total capitalization of $40,000,000 to conserve interests where $20,000,000 were ample to guarantee complete facilities to conserve every interest. Such additional construction would result in an impairment of the value of the investment in the first road and give no assurance of any return on the investment made in the second road; or the corporations would have to combine and adjust rates based on a combined capitalization of both roads, which would probably be the natural result on account of the necessity of taking such action that financial embarrassment might be averted. A parallel case exists in one of the valleys of Pennsylvania, where both passenger and freight rates were by agreement between the companies raised to meet the entire capitalization invested in both roads. The people along the lines of these roads can scarcely be said to be served any better than they were before the construction of the second line, so far as facilities and conveniences are concerned, and they are paying largely increased passenger and freight charges.

The proposition, then, seems a fair one, that if the State shall exercise its right to establish rates for transportation of passengers and commodities, which, all things being considered, will yield only an income of, say 5 or 6 per cent. on the actual investment, and where such road is abundantly able, or it is possible for it to become able, to render every facility and convenience for carrying out the objects of its incorporation, then it would seem entirely proper, and almost a duty on the part of the State, to relieve such a road from competition. In the State of New York, and perhaps in other States, the railway commissioners have the right to pass upon the propriety of building parallel roads, or, indeed, any road. This is a wise provision, for in many portions of the United States parallel lines have been constructed where there was no demand for them, and where such additional construction or paralleling of other lines has been barren of financial return and has impaired the investment in the first enterprise, while the public has derived no benefit whatever. It is not improper to suggest that this convention, in arranging its programme for the tenth annual convention, appoint a committee to investigate and report upon this subject. Under our form of government, and through the shifting scenes of political contests, it is common that men are placed in official positions and required to discharge duties concerning which they have had no special training or experience. It is confessed that such conditions have existed in Pennsylvania with reference to those who have had railway or transportation problems to solve, and it is likely that similar conditions exist in other States. To all such these conventions are of importance in diffusing that particular knowledge so essential to the determination of vital questions affecting our commerce. It is the desire of the chair, therefore, that in this conference there shall be freedom of discussion on all subjects considered. Conservatism should characterize all our actions, and our recommendations should receive mature consideration.

The State of Pennsylvania was also represented by the Secretary of Internal Affairs, Hon. James W. Latta. The Constitution of the State imposing upon him the duties of supervising the affairs of railways, so far as they relate to the public service of these corporations, it was eminently proper that he should be present and participate in the deliberations of the convention. With reference to the "Powers, duties and actual work of State Railroad Commissioners," so far as the same relate to Pennsylvania, Mr. Latta addressed the convention as follows:

Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I understand that there has never been a full report from our Commonwealth. I took the liberty of preparing a series of little reminiscences in the way of railroad matters that seem to indicate that the projectors of railway enterprises in the beginning of their career had even then conceived some of the questions that now agitate the public.

I beg to submit something on the origin, growth, and progress of the railway in Pennsylvania, and to briefly summarize the operations of the Internal Affairs Department, as associated with railways for the current railway year ending June 30 last.

Money seemed neither disposed to seek investment, nor the investors to give encouragement to the earlier railway enterprises. The first railway corporation in Pennsylvania, incorporated in 1823, to construct a railroad from Philadelphia to Columbia, a distance of some 80-odd miles, never reached consummation. The next year another was incorporated, to construct a road from Philadelphia, through Lancaster, to Columbia. This project also was a failure.

In spite of the opposition of the farmer, who bitterly resented the attempt to disturb his fee, the transporter, who resisted because his livelihood was threatened, and the unwillingness of the capitalist to invest, because of his reluctance to be led into experimental venture, the public sense had been seriously moved to the consideration of the attainment of better facilities for the carriage of men and commodities. When the intimacy of steam with locomotion had been conceived to be enduring, the Conestoga wagon was in the way and the mail coach out of place. The legislative invitation extended through its two charters offered no inducement to the private citizen. Its concession of the high right of eminent domain, with the attendant privileges, was considered not worth the acceptance. It was quite clear that those who controlled the means were not willing to make what was then thought a money sacrifice for the general good. If these advantages were to come at all, it is quite evident they must come not by aid, not by support, not by subsidization, but wholly by the State's assumption of the entire burden. There never has been any question of the power and duty of the State to construct and maintain her roadways. Upon the nation's right to sustain internal improvements political parties had divided, yet the national road had been laid out through the Middle and Western States, and New York had built her great canal. Pennsylvania, however, was the first government owner of a railroad in the United States.

In 1828 her commissioners located the Philadelphia and Columbia and the Portage Road over the Allegheny Mountains. Systems of canals secured the connection, and in 1834, upon the completion of these two railways, the system was continuous from Philadelphia to Pittsburg. The operation and management of this system remained exclusively in the hands of the State authorities, under a board known as the canal commissioners, until December, 1852, when the Pennsylvania Railroad, chartered in 1846, ran its first through cars from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. The link over the Allegheny Mountains remained incomplete until 1854, when the breach was closed and the inclined planes of the Portage Road abandoned. It was the first substantial proof that the great mountain barriers of the continent were to in no way interrupt railway service or materially hinder railway speed. It was the triumph of the skill of the American engineer that elicited national commendation and secured the world's approval. It was only by the application of the same technical achievements that solved the great Appalachian problem that the rail now spans the hemisphere and the engine speeds beyond the timber.

The railway portion of the State's system was operated by the Pennsylvania until 1857, when, under an act of Assembly of that year providing for the public sale of the main line of works, the Pennsylvania Railroad became the purchaser. The main line of the public works had come to be accepted as the term which included the entire system of canals and railways connecting Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. No bid was to be accepted below $7,500,000, and should the Pennsylvania Railroad become the purchaser it was stipulated that it should pay in addition to that sum the further sum of $1,500,000—a total of $9,000,000. By the terms of the act decreeing the sale the State agreed, should the Pennsylvania Company become the purchaser, to accept in payment its bonds bearing 5 per cent. interest, the principal payable at intervals until the whole obligation was discharged. This concession of credit and the release of a heavy tonnage tax, burdensome as well to shipper as carrier, were the causes for the increased figures in the purchase money. The obligations were promptly met at maturity and the debt has long since disappeared.

The State was owner of other valuable canal systems extending to her northerly and northwestern boundaries. They were subsequently all disposed of under the provisions of an act of Assembly approved the 21st day of April, 1858. The next year the office of canal commissioner and State engineer were abolished and Pennsylvania went out of the canal and railway business entirely.

In 1831 the Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown Railroad was incorporated; in 1832, the Philadelphia and Trenton, and in 1833, the Philadelphia and Reading. All were built wholly by individual loans and subscriptions, and all subsequently became handsome dividend-paying corporations.

The Pennsylvania Railroad was the outgrowth of an active and urgent public demand. Though its charter was not secured until 1846, as early as 1838 a convention, in which twenty-nine counties were represented, more than half of those then organized, and through which the proposed road was intended to pass, assembled at Harrisburg. This convention had for its object the construction of a continuous railroad from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. It resulted in securing the survey of what is the present route of the Pennsylvania Railroad. A public meeting was called in Philadelphia in 1845 to further stimulate the enterprise. Out of this meeting came its consummation, and the next year followed the charter.

Though no provision was made in the beginning for supervisory control over construction or operation, mandatory limitations and restrictions were imposed upon both. Grade crossings, whether at public highways or through private lands, restraints upon other lines of business beyond the intendment of the charter, maximum rates of tolls and charges, their reduction should the earnings exceed a fixed percentage on capitalization, the right of revocation, reservation of the State's right to purchase at reasonable and just appraisement, were of the general character of limitations that are found distinctively impressed upon early railway legislation.

The Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown Railroad was probably the first enterprise that successfully invited individual investment. It could not open a bank, conduct a manufacturing establishment or engage in trade, and was forbidden to hold or possess land, except for purposes of construction, for tollhouses, or its other necessary work. In its construction it could not impede the free use and passage of any public road then or thereafter to be laid out. At all road crossings it was provided that it should "cause to be made a good and sufficient causeway" to enable "persons passing or traveling" to pass over or under its road bed. This causeway was to be kept and maintained in repair by the railway under penalty of a $10 per diem fine for every day after notice that the causeway remained out of repair. The penalty was enforceable through the township authorities, and they as well as individuals were accorded a right of action against the company for any grievance by neglect. If in crossing a farm the railroad in any way interrupted free and ready access to any point within its limits the farmer was entitled to have his causeway built and maintained by the company. The privilege, however, was limited to a single causeway to each plantation.

The tolls and charges for transportation of goods and for conveyance of passengers were fixed at 2 cents per ton per mile for produce and minerals; other rates were scheduled for other commodities, and the passenger toll was levied at 1 cent per mile for each passenger. Whenever the net proceeds of the tolls exceeded 12 per centum of the amount of capital expended they were to be reduced, so as not to exceed that percentage of profit.

The State had not yet learned its lesson in uniformity of rates. The same year the Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown was incorporated (1831) the West Chester Railroad was permitted to collect tolls not to exceed 8 cents per ton per mile for freight and 4 cents per mile for passengers.

Two years later in 1833, the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad was incorporated. It has ever since rendered extended and valuable public service, and is now the lessee of the Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown. Like its lessor, it could neither bank, trade, nor manufacture, and its right to the soil was likewise limited to railway necessities only. It could nowhere cross at grade the then existing highways, but was not bound to protect those thereafter laid out. Neither was there limitation upon its earnings, nor was the State privileged to purchase. It was compelled, however, to construct its causeways as well over or under roads as on the farms, and maintain them on the roads under like penalties and conditions as were provided in the charter that it so largely followed. Its tolls on every species of property were not to exceed 4 cents per ton per mile, and each passenger was to be charged at an average rate of 2 cents per mile. The average, it would seem, might have been readily maintained and yet localities be discriminated against, where way travel justified it, to the advantage of the corporation.

In the thirteen years that elapsed between the charter of the Reading, in 1833, and the incorporation of the Pennsylvania, in 1846, legislative thought on the subject of railway construction at least had undergone much modification. The grade crossing prohibition, the necessity for which was increasing rather than diminishing, though not entirely eliminated from this charter, was so modified as to caution against impeding travel at roadways rather than to compel its absolute protection by causeway or bridge. The compulsory requirement for the construction of either was altogether omitted. It is doubtful whether causeway construction ever had practical application. A casual observation of the roads where the legislative command was intended to be made operative would induce the belief that it never had. How far the observance or continuance of restrictive grade-crossing legislation would have benefited both the carrier and its patrons is a problem best solvable by the railway manager. That the public would have been better advantaged if the restrictive legislation had continued, is the other problem that has long since worked its own solution.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company was declared a public highway by its charter. This seems to have been the first legislative recognition of the fact that a railroad was as much the "King's" highway as a public road, the difference being in methods and appliances for the use and enjoyment of the one or the other. Such recognition is also in support of the conclusion that payment for its use is in the nature of tax and toll, and must of consequence be levied with uniformity and reasonableness, and not collected as if it were a price or charge subject to the bargain or arrangement of the carrier. This charter also limited the rates of toll to be levied if the carriage was to be in cars other than those furnished by the company. Two and a half cents per mile was fixed for the passenger, and three cents per ton per mile for freight. If in its own cars the toll was to be three cents per mile for the through passengers and three and one-half cents for the way. The State never had opportunity to avail itself of the continuing privilege of purchase given by the charter at the end of each twenty years from the date of the organization of the road. It doubtless never would, even had the privilege to purchase not been removed by subsequent legislation. Always a dividend-paying corporation, there could be no question as to the huge appraisement of its stocks, bonds, equipment, and franchises. The figures would have been too great to permit a cash purchase, and there is now a constitutional inhibition in Pennsylvania against borrowing except in time of war.

The first general law regulating railways was passed in 1849. As early as 1832, however, owners of land, mines, kilns, quarries, etc., within three miles of a railroad or canal were authorized to construct a lateral railroad over intervening lands to intersect with the main line of either. The act of 1849 fixed the tolls and rates generally at the figures prescribed in the Pennsylvania charter, continued the injunction against impeding travel at crossings, omitted the requirement for the causeway over or under the highway, but preserved the farmer's right to exact such protection when the railroad crossed his holdings.

The Constitution of 1874—there has been no change since in the fundamental law—though in other respects materially affecting railway management, direction, and organization, in no way disturbed existing charters or the general law fixing tolls and regulating the road crossing.

Under this Constitution, and the laws that have been passed since its adoption, the Secretary of Internal Affairs is required to exercise a watchful supervision over the railroad, banking, mining, manufacturing, and other business corporations of the State, and to see that they confine themselves strictly within their corporate limits; and wherever complaint is made for any infraction of the law, or for any act committed beyond the authority given by virtue of charters or acts of incorporation, investigation is made by the Secretary of Internal Affairs, and in case the complaint is well founded it is his duty to certify such violation to the Attorney General, who, under the Con stitution and the law, is required to proceed at the expense of the Commonwealth against any corporation so offending. The duties thus imposed upon the Secretary would seem to embrace every violation of law that may be committed by corporations, and yet the number of complaints has been small. The most important case considered by the Secretary during the past year was one involving the right of a railroad company to own the capital stock of a mining company, the claim being that such ownership constituted a violation of the Pennsylvania State Constitution, which provides that—

“No incorporated company doing the business of a common carrier shall directly or indirectly prosecute or engage in mining or manufacturing articles for transportation over its works; nor shall such company directly or indirectly engage in any other business than that of common carrier, or hold or acquire lands, freehold, or leasehold, directly or indirectly, except such as shall be necessary for carrying on its business.”

The facts in the case showed that the railroad company was the owner of a large amount of the stock of a mining company, and that therefore such ownership constituted a violation of the Constitution in that the company was indirectly engaging in a business prohibited by the provisions of the Constitution referred to.

The statutes of the State give canal and railroad companies the right to invest their funds in the stocks and bonds of canal and mining corporations, but it was alleged that such enactments are in violation of the fundamental law, in that such investments constitute, at least indirectly, an engagement by a common carrier in another kind of business than that for which the corporation was organized. The Supreme Court, however, had decided in the case of The Commonwealth v. The New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company (Pennsylvania State Reports 132, p. 591) that the ownership by a railroad company of certificates of stock in a mining company does not constitute a violation of the law which prohibits a railroad company from owning lands not necessary in conducting its business; and further, that such ownership of stocks could not be considered in any way as constituting ownership to the land or giving the railroad company, directly or indirectly, a title to the lands owned by the mining corporation of which the railroad company owned stock, and that stock so held was not real, but personal property. Such adjudication having been made by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, the Secretary of Internal Affairs, in disposing of the complaint made as before stated, found as follows:

“If the holding or owning of the stock of a mining company by a common carrier does not violate the act of 1855 with reference to acquiring or ownership of real estate, the ownership of the stock of a mining company by the railroad complained of does not constitute a violation of section 5, article 17, of the Pennsylvania Constitution, and such ownership by a railroad corporation is not prosecuting or engaging in the mining industry within the meaning of the prohibitory provisions of the Constitution."

On the question of rates, no complaint has ever been filed with the Secretary of Internal Affairs, nor is he empowered to adjust the rates for passenger or freight transportation. The only powers he has in regard to rates consist in his authority to prevent a railway corporation from charging a greater amount either for the transportation of passengers or commodities than is allowed under its charter rights; and as the rates for transporting passengers and commodities have for twenty-five years past been lower than the maximum which, under the law, corporations are permitted to charge, it is not probable that the Department will often be called upon to consider questions regarding the violation of the laws in reference to excessive rates.

Besides the annual reports which the Constitution requires shall be made to the Secretary of Internal Affairs by railroad, canal and other transportation companies, he may require special reports at any time upon any subject relating to the business of such companies from any officer or officers thereof.

The printed blanks, which the law prescribes the Secretary shall distribute for the annual report of these several corporations, follow in form, detail, and substance the exhaustive system of investigation and inquiry so ably digested and wisely recommended by the railway convention some years ago. The statute fixes a day upon which the annual report must reach the Secretary. A refusal or neglect to supply the report within the time limit prescribed renders the delinquent company, for every such refusal, liable to a penalty of $5,000 for the use of the Commonwealth, recoverable as are debts of like amount. There has been commendable promptitude, however, in supplying the reports and the penalty has rarely been enforced.

The Railway Bureau has for many years been in the keeping of the same painstaking and capable officer. He is as constant, continuous, and faithful at home as you have known him to be in these conventions. His reports are models of research, accuracy, calculation, and care. They supply a fund of interesting, instructive, and otherwise unattainable information useful and important in current affairs and invaluable as a contribution to the archives of the State.

The volume known as Part IV of the series of publications of the Department of Internal Affairs is devoted wholly to railroads, canals, telegraphs, and telephones. The work covers some 900 pages. For report of each railway company, its date of organization, the names of its officers and board of directors, the length of its line, the termini, and a general balance sheet exhibiting its financial standing at the end of the fiscal year. Separate and special consideration is given to stock capitalization, dividends, funded indebtedness, cost of road and equipment, railway equipment, mileage, railway employes and their compensation, number of passengers carried, tonnage, rates of transportation, passenger and freight earnings, earnings and income, other earnings from operation, and accidents. A separate chapter is devoted to street railways, their stocks, bonds and capitalization, equipment, persons employed, and passengers carried, together with their mileage, income, expenses, and accidents.

There are also eleven statements of tabulated results on these and kindred subjects, exhaustively compiled from the various reports of the companies. The report closes with six comparative tables prepared from statistics gathered within the past five years. These tables show increase or decrease of debt, additional cost of road and equipment, aggregate number of passengers carried each year by all of the operating companies, total number of passengers carried for each of the five years, earnings, income, expenses from operation, and injuries and accidents to employes, passengers, and other persons.

There are 278 steam railways, with a total mileage 19,560.32 miles, whose operating reports are filed with the Department of Internal Affairs. Of this, 10,054.38 miles are within the limits of the State. Add to this the 1,561.87 miles of street railways, representing 191 corporations in operation and 207 chartered and ready for construction, and it will be readily conceded that close application and much space are essential to complete a publication for the comprehensive understanding of the organization, operation, and management of the railway systems of Pennsylvania.

It is the purpose of these conventions, as I understand it, to treat of questions of national import and discuss subjects looking to the advantage, improvement, and benefit of the railway itself and its increasing usefulness to its patrons, passengers, employes, and the general public. I hope I may have in no way introduced an innovation.

The public road has ever been considered the first step toward a higher civilization. Whatever has brought mankind into a closer touch and better intimacy has removed the barriers of a selfish separation. The appliances that have facilitated the use of the roadway for a more rapid transit, and equipped it for a less expensive service, have produced new conditions that neither State lines bound nor do the rivers or the seas divide. Steam and electricity have made the whole world akin. Yet the transportation problem, unrestful as a fixed proposition, is ever asking a new solution of the commercial relations of men with each other and nations among themselves. Until new discovery, new invention, and new application shall cease to give that problem differing forms, these relations must bear the same condition precedent as do the scheduled sailing days of the great ocean steamships—"subject to change without notice."

Pennsylvania, in her canal navigation and her railway growth, has kept pace with the nation's progress, and whenever on her borders she has met the systems of her sister States a friendly competition has led her, with them, to reach into the newer fields of Western enterprise. For the ore in her mountains, the oil in her valleys, the timber on her hills, and the coal in her basins the rail has been ready, with an outlet to tide water and a market, as rapidly as new development demanded increased facilities. Upon the superstructure of her old "main line" she has reared a system of railways of unusual advantage and most satisfactory service. Man is prone to chafe under discipline. So far as public sentiment may be gathered through the usual channels of communication, these systems are operated with a friction only consonant with that assertive independence peculiarly of American heritage.

STREET RAILWAYS.

Capital Stock and Bonds Outstanding—Current Liabilities—Total Capitalization—Stocks and Bonds Owned.

In Table A, of the consolidated tables, will be found data with reference to the total capitalization. The amount of capital stock outstanding June 30, 1897, was $143,489,309, the amount of funded indebtedness was $42,812,430, the amount of current liabilities $34,266,976; or a total capitalization of $220,568,715. Of this amount of capital stock and funded indebtedness outstanding the street railway corporations themselves own $52,314,349. It is difficult to make any comparisons of the amount of capital stock and funded indebtedness now outstanding with the returns for former years. Any observations made with reference to these subjects might not represent the facts, owing to the remarkable rapidity with which changes are made in the management, leasing or control of street railways as the result of recent legislation and the introduction of electricity as a motive power. While there have not been many consolidations or mergers in law, yet practically there have been a large number of cases where traction companies, as authorized by law, have leased the lines of other street railway corporations upon a nominal rental, and the stock or a large portion of the stock of the leased company is assigned to the traction company, the stockholders taking in lieu thereof the stock of the Traction company. This is practically a consolidation or merger, as the stock so held by the Traction company of the leased line or lines is of no great value, in most cases there being but little or nothing paid in the way of dividends or for rentals. There are, of course, exceptions to this view of the case, but if a fair appraisal could be made of the cash value of the $52,314,349 of stocks and bonds owned by the street railways, it would be found that the figures would be very much reduced. It would be well, both from an administrative standpoint and it would seem for the lessor and lessee companies to have our State laws with reference to street railways so amended that the operating companies, which are now the lessee companies, should have a right to consolidate and merge with all their leased lines. This would at least result in eliminating from corporate existence one-half of the street railway corporations now reporting to this Bureau. The processes by which the present conditions have been arrived at, are perhaps better known to the projectors of these enterprises than to the public generally. A case may be stated, without referring to any particular locality. For instance, a city may have had a half-dozen different street railway companies with their lines located on different streets, having a combined capitalization of, say, $500,000. A Traction company is organized and all the companies within the city decide to consolidate or merge or lease to the Traction company, and the stockholders of such original companies surrender their stock or assign it to the Traction company and in lieu thereof receive the stock of the Traction company. This, as will be seen, is a practical merger or consolidation, although lacking the sanction of law or decree of court authorizing such consolidation or merger. The great advance in the total capitalization during the last six or eight years is largely due to the fact that when a Traction company takes charge of the lines by lease, merger or consolidation, as stated, the capitalization of the Traction company is made usually two or three times as great as was the combined capital stock of the companies leased, merged or consolidated. By this process of controlling the lines of street railways in Pennsylvania the stock capitalization per mile of road is increased to an amount far exceeding the average cost of steam railways and their equipment in the United States. It may not be improper to suggest that the process herein referred to is an effort made by the management of the street railway enterprises to make them pay a dividend upon a much larger capitalization than fairness to the public who are to be conserved by these roads would warrant.

COST OF ROAD AND EQUIPMENT.

In Table B will be found a detailed statement of the cost of road and equipment. In many cases the lessee company includes the cost of road and equipment of the lessor company, which accounts for the absence of data in the columns referring to this subject, but in each case a reference will be found to indicate by what lessee company the information is given as to the subsidiary company. By reference to the totals it will be seen that the cost of road is reported at $100,416,717 and the cost of equipment at $17,833,297, or a total cost of road and equipment of $118,250,014. The disparity between these figures and the total capitalization of $220,568,715 is so great that it can be accounted for only in one way, and that is by the fictitious issue of stock and possibly of bonds. Measured by the cost of road and equipment, as given in this table, it will be seen that the average cost per mile of street railway in Pennsylvania is only about one-half what it would be if estimated upon the basis of total capitalization.

INCOME.

There are many street railway corporations whose lines have been constructed and are now subsidiary to the corporations that are carrying on the operations. In consolidated Table C will be found the gross earnings from operations, the total of which is $18,879,649, and also income from other sources amounting to $8,516,840, or a total income from operations and other sources of $27,396,489. If comparison be made between several of these corporations with reference to income from operations, it will show that the receipts have fallen off in a measurable degree from those of last year. It cannot be assumed that this decrease in revenues is due to the depressed business condition that has existed for the past few years, as on all sides there are signs of improvement that ought to have swollen to some extent at least the receipts of the street railways from operations. The cause must therefore be attributed to something else. In all probability the use of the bicycle by business people and pleasure seekers is the prolific source of the reduction in the receipts of many street railway companies. In cities where favorable conditions do not exist for the use of the bicycle; where the hills are steep and not easy of ascent or descent, the railway companies probably have not been affected by the use of the wheel to so great an extent, but in cities like Harrisburg and many others it cannot be gainsaid that the bicycle has become a most serious competitor of the railway. By reference to the report of the Harrisburg Traction Company it will be seen that there has been a perceptible falling off in the revenues from operations for the present year as compared with last year. Certainly the business conditions of Harrisburg during this year have been as favorable for good receipts for the railway company as they were last year, but any one who observes the general use of the bicycle on the paved streets on which the lines of the street car company are located, will see that there are many more persons passing upon wheels than in the cars. What proportion of these people are going from one point to another on business, or what percentage is made up of pleasure seekers cannot, of course, be ascertained with any degree of accuracy. The fact remains, however, that many more persons travel the streets on bicycles than patronize the cars. To reinforce this view of the case an observation was made on Third street of the city of Harrisburg during the month of October, 1897. The observation covered two days. The weather was not particularly favorable to the use of bicycles, nor was it of such a character as to induce an unusual patronage of the street cars. The period covered was from seven in the morning to six in the evening. During that time 6,078 persons passed a given point, 1,962 in the cars, and 4,116 on bicycles; 67 7-10 per cent. on bicycles and 32 3-10 per cent. in the cars, or more than two to one in favor of the wheel. To what extent this large number of bicycle riders affected the receipts of the Traction company can only be conjectured. It cannot be denied, however, that of this number a considerable percentage would have ridden in the cars either as a means of getting from one point to another on business, or in pursuit of pleasure, and to the extent that such persons would have patronized the cars, just to that extent the receipts of the company have been affected.

Similar conditions will be found in nearly all of the larger towns of the Commonwealth, and it is safe to state that the bicycle, as before asserted, has become a most formidable competitor of the street railway companies, and that it has been the cause of a great reduction in the receipts of these corporations.

DISBURSEMENTS.

In Table D will be found a consolidated statement of the disbursements made by each corporations named, also the total disbursements. The total amount of operating expenses are given at $10,075,644; the amount of taxes paid, $1,567,335; interest on funded debt, $1,919,084; rentals, $7,736,525; other expenses, $942,481; dividends, $5,214,874; a total of $27,455,943. If these figures are a correct exhibit of the facts with reference to income and disbursement, then the disbursements have by a small amount exceeded the income during the year.

MILEAGE.

In Table E will be found a statement of the mileage of each road, except that in some cases the operating company reports not only the mileage owned by it, but also the mileage of the subsidiary roads it controls by lease or contract. The total mileage in Pennsylvania is reported at 1,551.97 miles. These figures are as nearly correct as it is possible to get them from the data returned to this Bureau. It is undoubtedly a close approximation to the facts and can be relied upon as substantially correct.

EQUIPMENT. NUMBER OF EMPLOYES. NUMBER OF PAS-SENGERS CARRIED.

Table F shows that there are in the service of the street railways of Pennsylvania 4,914 motor cars and 499 other cars, or a total of 5,413, and that the number of employes is 12,079, to whom was paid during the year the sum of $6,920,692. The number of passengers carried is shown to be 409,723,418.

ACCIDENTS.

Table G shows the number of passengers killed and injured, number of employes killed and injured, number of other persons killed and injured and the total of all persons killed and injured. During the year there were eighteen passengers killed and 519 injured. From these figures it would appear that the hazard to passengers on street railways is greater than upon steam railways, for by reference to the consolidated table showing accidents to passengers on the steam railways, embracing over 22,000 miles of operations, it will be seen that there were but thirty-six passengers killed and 782 injured during the year. Among employes on the street railway lines the hazard is not so great as on the steam roads. The number of employes killed was but four and the number injured seventy-one. Among the casualties to other persons than passengers and employes seventy-one were killed and 364 injured, making a total killed of 93 and 954 injured. The fact cannot be disputed that a large number of the persons, both passengers and others, killed and injured, have been killed and injured at grade crossings. There have been two or three cases where a motor car in crossing the track of a steam railway has stopped on the track and for some cause or other the power could not be applied in sufficient time to move it and the car or train on the steam road struck it. A number of passengers have been killed in this way during the year. If there were no other reason, this should be sufficient to induce the Legislature to provide that in all future construction of either street or steam railways, at least outside of municipalities, grade crossings should be prohibited. It would undoubtedly involve a too great expense to abolish grade crossings within the cities at the present time, but there should be some effort made in that direction, so that they may gradually, and so far as practicable, be abolished. The Legislature will not have done its duty to the people of the State until it shall have made some provision for the accomplishment of this object, but more especially to prevent grade crossings in new construction outside of municipalities. A bill providing for the prevention of the construction of additional grade crossings outside of cities was prepared by this Bureau and recommended for passage at the last session of the Legislature. It received the approval of many of the leading steam and street railway managers, and it seems should have commended itself to the favorable consideration of the law makers. The measure was referred to the committee on railways, but it was never considered or reported back to the Legislature, and therefore failed to become a law. The bill also provided that in case of any serious accident resulting in the destruction of life of passengers, employes or other persons, it should be the duty of this Bureau to make an investigation of the causes that led to the accident, with a view of fixing the responsibility therefor, so far as might be possible. This is done in other states, and it would seem eminently wise and proper to provide for the investigation of the causes of such accidents in Pennsylvania, where steam railways and street railways exist to a greater extent than perhaps in any other state in the Union.

In concluding the report of the Bureau of Railways for the year ending June 30, 1897, which is the tenth report which it has been my privilege and honor to prepare, I beg to acknowledge the efficient and valuable services of the acting Chief Clerk, W. W. Morgaridge and the Assistant, W. A. Neale, who have contributed so largely of their time and energy in the preparation of the data found in the consolidated tables. It may not be improper here to observe that the duty devolving upon the Bureau of Railways is of a character that demands the most careful thought in arranging statistical matters, and involves the expenditure of an almost limitless amount of labor in keeping the records and other data with reference to each of the many corporations comprising the steam railways, the street railways, the telephone, telegraph and canal corporations. There is no state in the Union having supervision of common carrier corporations that has so many such corporations in charge as does the Bureau of Railways of the Department of Internal Affairs. In most of the states there are commissioners of from three to five in number, to each of whom is paid a salary ranging from $3,000 to $8,000 a year, beside being supplied with more clerical assistance than is provided in Pennsylvania, yet all the work and management of this Bureau in Pennsylvania is conducted with an expense to the Commonwealth of the salaries of two employes, each receiving $1,400, and a contingent expense of $1,000, or a total expense for a year of $3,800. The salaries of the commissioners and employes alone in the State of New York, are more than ten times that amount. In view of these provisions and of the character of the reports which are annually published by this Bureau, the Legislature at its last session provided a salary of $1,000 per annum for the Superintendent of the Bureau of Railways, in addition to his salary as Deputy Secretary of Internal Affairs. This would have resulted in a total expenditure in conducting the Bureau of Railways, having in charge the supervision of all these great common carrier corporations, of $4,800 per annum, an amount much less than is expended for similar purposes by any other state in the Union. This provision of the Legislature received the disapproval of the Executive and therefore failed to become a law. The perusal of the annual report which is herewith submitted, together with the legal questions involved in investigating and determining complaints which are made against corporations, a record of two of which appears in this report, will carry conviction of approval or disapproval of what was done by the Executive with reference to the salary provided by the Legislature at the session of 1897. During all the time I have been connected with the Bureau of Railways until recently I have had the valuable help of Mr. John T. Johnson, who died on the fourth day of August, 1897. No more loyal or faithful public servant has come under my observation than Mr. Johnson was, and his loss to the Bureau was keenly felt and his fellow employes in the Department of Internal Affairs, without exception, regret deeply that death deprived them of his faithful companionship.

ISAAC B. BROWN,
Superintendent Bureau of Railways.

This road was built to connect Coleraine colliery with Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, and has no equipment of its own, but simply gives the two roads above mentioned an outlet to the colliery.

We, therefore, have no operating report to make, nor has the road any revenue, nor does it do any business.

The road was built for the benefit of Coleraine colliery, and it was thought advisable not to give either of the roads any control of the same.

The only rental paid by either railroad company is the pro-rata share of the actual expenses of keeping the road in repair.

IMPORTANT CHANGES DURING THE YEAR.

Cambria County Railroad, 8.05 miles, commenced September, 1896, and completed February, 1897. This line was constructed for the purpose of connecting Patton Branch No. 3, of the Cambria and Clearfield Railroad at Patton, with the Susquehanna extension of the same road at Spangler.

The work was of average character with regard to yardage of grading and masonry per mile, except on fill of sixty-five feet depth, containing about 50,000 yards. There is one bridge of twenty feet span; the balance of the masonry consists of culverts, iron and terra-cotta pipes having been used for drains.

West Branch, 0.80 miles, is a spur from the Susquehanna branch of the Cambria and Clearfield Railroad to the colliery of the West Branch Coal Company. It was commenced December, 1896, and completed February, 1897. The work is of ordinary character with regard to yardage per mile. No stone was used in the construction of water ways, which are built of timber, or of wrought iron and terra-cotta pipes. There is one bridge of three spans of twenty-four feet each of iron "I" beams.

Empire Branch, 0.64 miles, is also a spur of the Susquehanna extension, running from North Barnesboro to the colliery of the Empire Coal Company. It was commenced in April and finished in June, 1897. The work is of the same character as the West Branch mentioned above. The only bridge is a fourteen feet span consisting of iron girders.

Decatur Branch was reduced one-half mile, and Woodland Branch, 1.23 miles, was abandoned, both owing to cessation of shipments by the colliery companies to whose mines they ran.

CONTRACTS, AGREEMENTS, ETC.

The National Express Company, which pays for local freight one and one-half first class tariff rates; for through freight 29 cents; between New York and Rutland, Vt., and Rouses Point, N. Y., two-third first class tariff rates; between other competing points, first class tariff rates; also 10 per cent. of its profits. On the Pennsylvania Division the Express Company pays the railroad company one-half of the gross receipts.

Mails are transported for the compensation fixed by the government.

Pullman Palace Car Company, which is paid three cents per mile run.

Wagner Palace Car Company, which is paid three cents per mile run for sleeping cars, and one cent per mile run for drawing room cars.

Joint traffic agreements exist with the following named companies, the revenue being divided on the basis of mileage: Erie Railroad Company, Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, New York Southern and Western Railroad Company.

Contracts giving this company trackage rights on other roads are in force with the companies named below. Three of the contracts allow one passenger train on foreign tracks; in two cases the rental is an arbitrary amount, in the others a proportion of the gross receipts is the basis of settlement; Erie Railroad, Jefferson Branch; Central Railroad of New Jersey, Nanticoke Railroad; Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, through their Wilkes-Barre yard; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, Plymouth Junction to Bull Run.

A contract with the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey gives that company trackage rights on our road between Mill Creek and Minooka Junction, payment is based on the number of passengers and tonnage of freight transported.

An agreement with the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Railroad Company gives that company the right to use our tracks for coal only, between Wilkes-Barre and Plymouth Junction. The coal tonnage transported is the basis of settlement.

An agreement with the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, gives that company trackage rights on our track for coal only, between Scranton, Vine street and Green Ridge.

The coal tonnage transported is the basis of settlement.

The Western Union Telegraph Company receives 33 1-3 per cent. of the receipts from revenue business of the telegraph lines on the Susquehanna Division, which are owned and operated by the railroad company. One wire from Albany to Binghamton and two wires between Cooperstown and Cooperstown Junction, put up in 1897, are leased to the Western Union Telegraph Company, for a fixed annual consideration. The Western Union Telegraph Company receives 50 per cent. of the revenue business of the Rensselaer and Saratoga Railroad and branches, with the exception of one wire from Eagle Bridge to Castleton (47.56 miles), which is owned by the Western Union Telegraph Company, and operated by the railroad company; the telegraph company's share of the receipts is the same as on the rest of the lines.

The telegraph line Whitehall to Rouses Point (New York and Canada Railroad Company) 113.39 miles; the poles and one wire are the property of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company of Canada, operated in connection with the Western Union Telegraph Company.

The Great Northwestern Telegraph Company has also a working contract on the lines from Plattsburgh to Ausable, and West Chazy to Movers Junction, which are operated by the railroad company.

The receipts of the above lines are divided as follows:

Railroad company's proportion of receipts, Great Northwestern business proper, 50 per cent. Railroad company's proportion of receipts, Western Union, 20 per cent.; balance is proportion of Great Northwestern Telegraph Company.

DELAWARE, LACKAWANNA AND WESTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

CONTRACTS, AGREEMENTS, ETC.

Whereas, The party of the first part by reason of the location of its road is dependent largely upon the business of the party of the second part, and the mutual interests of the parties hereto are such that by working in harmony they may develop the interests of both, and enlarge the business opportunities of the party of the first part:

And whereas, The party of the first part is desirous of furnishing to the party of the second part for the time being its transportation at about the cost of the same to the party of the first part, and the fluctuation of the business from time to time, renders necessary a change in the carrying rates.

It is therefore hereby agreed that the prices charged by the party of the first part for transportation over its line, furnished to the party of the second part, at and prior to the date of this agreement, are hereby approved, confirmed and full settlement of the same to the date of this agreement, is hereby acknowledged; that for the future it is agreed that the rates shall be fixed quarterly on the first days of January, April, July and October in each year. It being, however, understood and agreed that when a rate is fixed upon and for a succeeding quarter, that the same shall remain unchanged until by agreement, either verbal or in writing the rate shall be changed, that is to say, that the freight rates shall remain as fixed for the current quarter, until by agreement the schedule is altered or changed, that for each quarter the schedule rate agreed upon shall be understood and agreed to be, as fixed by the last preceding agreement.

Beginning with April 1, 1897, the party of the second part shall pay to the party of the first part 90 cents per car for each loaded or partly loaded car transported to and from the works of the said party of the second part, over the line of the party of the first part, but no charge shall be made for hauling empty cars in either direction.

These prices shall include the shifting of all cars at or about the works of the party of the second part.

The above is a memorandum of an agreement made on the first day of April, 1897, between the Johnstown and Stony Creek Railroad Company of Johnstown, Pa., and the Johnson Company of the same place.

NEW YORK, CHICAGO AND ST. LOUIS RAILROAD COMPANY.

Date of organization: September 27, 1887.

Under laws of what government or state organized: Under the laws of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

If a consolidated company, name the constituent companies: This company's railroad was built for the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Company, a consolidated company organized under the laws of the five states above named and composed of constituent companies in the several states, to wit: The Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago Railway Company of New York, whose articles of association were filed with the Secretary of State about January 15, 1881. The Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago Railway Company of Pennsylvania, whose articles of association were filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth about January 15, 1881. The New York and Chicago Railway Company of Ohio, whose articles of incorporation were filed with the Secretary of State about March 15, 1881. The New York and Chicago Railway Company of Indiana, whose articles of incorporation were filed with the Secretary of State March 4, 1881. The New York and Chicago Railway Company of Illinois, whose articles of organization were filed with the Secretary of State March 23, 1881. All of the constituent companies were incorporated under the general railroad laws of their respective states, to wit: General railroad law of New York, entitled "An act to authorize the formation of railroad companies and to regulate the same," passed April 2, 1850. In Pennsylvania, "An act to authorize the formation and regulation of railroad corporations," approved April 4, 1868. In Ohio, sections 3236 to 3245 of revised statutes. In Indiana, sections 3885 to 3888 of revised statutes. In Illinois, chapter 114 of revised statutes, sections 1 to 6. The constituent companies were consolidated by agreement, dated April 8, 1881, under the general laws of the five states named, to which reference is made as follows: In New York, chapter 817 of the laws of 1869, entitled "An act authorizing the consolidation of certain railroad companies." In Pennsylvania, "An act supplementary to an act regulating railroad companies," approved the 17th day of February, A. D. 1849; approved 24th of March, 1865. In Ohio, sections 3380 to 3385 of revised statutes. In Indiana, section 3971 of revised statutes. In Illinois, chapter 32 of revised statutes, sections 50 to 57. By reason of the foreclosure of mortgages upon its railway, it was sold in May, 1887. Companies incorporated under the laws of the five states above named, respectively, bought from the purchasers the portions in their respective states. These companies, with the dates of their incorporation, were as follows: The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company, of New York, whose articles of association were filed with the Secretary of State June 22, 1887. The Erie and State Line Railroad Company, of Pennsylvania, whose articles of association were filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth June 27, 1887. The Cleveland and State Line Railroad Company of Ohio, whose articles of incorporation were filed with the Secretary of State August 15, 1887. The Fort Wayne and Illinois Railroad Company, whose certificate of incorporation was filed with the Secretary of State June 28, 1887. The Chicago and State Line Railroad Company, whose articles of incorporation were filed with the Secretary of State June 30, 1887.

All were organized under the general railroad laws of the several states to which reference is given above.

Agreement for consolidation of the constituent companies in New York and Pennsylvania, dated July 7, 1887, and filed with the Secretary of State August 15, 1887. Name of consolidated company: The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company. Agreement for consolidation of above named consolidated company with constituent companies in Ohio and Indiana filed with the Secretary of State September 28, 1887. Lease of Chicago and State Line Railroad from the Chicago and State Line Railroad Company to the Fort Wayne and Illinois Railroad Company, dated September 20, 1887. As this company is the owner of the capital stock of the Chicago and State Line Railroad Company, which does not keep up an independent organization for the purpose of distributing income, the lease is treated as effecting a consolidation in fact. Consolidation was effected under the laws of the several states referred to above, except the lease of the Chicago and State Line Railroad Company, which was made by authority of chapter 114, section 34, of revised statutes of Illinois, and section 3973 of revised statutes of Indiana.

The interest on equipment trust obligations accrued and paid for the year was $164,467.50, as shown on opposite page. The amount charged to income amount was $662,376.07, shown on page 23, a reference to letter written by M. Riebenack Assistant Comptroller, to Prof. Henry C. Adams, Statistician, dated May 7, 1890, which explains fully the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's method of treating payments on account of principal and interest of car trust obligations, will explain the cause of the difference. It should also be stated that quite a number of cars covered by obligations on opposite page, is sublet to other companies, and such companies repay the Pennsylvania Railroad Company any payments, made by that company on account of such cars leaving the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to take into its own account only the payments on account of cars leased by the car trusts to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

EXPLANATORY REMARKS.

No amount per mile of "Road" is given for the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company; also no "Grand Total Amount" per mile of "Road" for the reason that the stock and bonds cover both railroad and canal.

EXPLANATORY REMARKS.

It is not possible from the system of accounts used by this company to give the expenditures for the year or the total cost under the various items as called for. The transactions for the year shown as "cost of construction" on opposite page are sub-divided in our accounts as follows:

Right of way,	$332,407 25
Additional tracks,	2,496 69
New lines,	743,879 89
Buildings, furniture and fixtures,	21,374 74
Wharfing,	207,341 30
Other items,	112,619 97
Total,	$167,640 94

We do not separate in our accounts the cost of the different kinds of cars used in the passenger service, consequently we cannot divide the amounts stated to show separately the cost of passenger cars, sleeping, parlor or dining cars, etc. The cost of equipment is that of equipment used on all Pennsylvania Railroad lines, dividing it by length of road owned by Pennsylvania Railroad shows a result which can be of no use. Dividing the cost of floating equipment by length of road owned produces a result that can be of no use.

EXPLANATORY REMARKS.

The total passenger revenue $13,518,683.57 shown on opposite page, differs from that shown on page 35, $14,268,683.58, on account of the passenger earnings of the Jersey City ferries being included in the latter but not in the former. In ascertaining averages the earnings of the ferries are always excluded, no mileage being calculated therefor on account of considerable of the earnings being derived from passengers traveling only between Jersey City and New York and not using the railroad. These exclusively ferry passengers are not included in number of passengers carried, the number given being only those using the railroad.

Basis for ascertaining mileage of switching trains:

Locomotive switching trains both passenger and freight are allowed six miles per hour for the number of hours employed each day. The time is usually twelve hours per day. In cases where switching locomotives are in service both day and night the allowance is twenty-four hours.

HISTORY OF ORGANIZATION, CONSTRUCTION, LEASING AND CONSOLIDATION OF LINES OPERATED, AND STATUTES AUTHORIZING THE SAME.

The company was organized on 17th November, 1894, and application was made for a charter under act of May 14, 1889. The original route of the company was from Greensburg, Westmoreland county, Pa., to Turtle Creek in Allegheny county. This was subsequently modified, and the western terminus is now the borough of Irwin. The route as contemplated was through the boroughs of Greensburg, Jeannette, Penn, Manor and Irwin, the villages of Westmoreland city, Shafton, Biddle and others, and the townships of North Huntingdon, Penn and Hempfield.

A contract was let for the construction of the road on January 23, 1895, and the rights of way and franchises were subsequently secured, and work was commenced on the construction in the summer of 1895. The road between Greensburg and Jeannette was completed in November, 1896, and operation commenced soon after with but two cars.

The road was then completed to Penn borough, and since then to Manor borough. Four cars are regularly operated, and on special occasions, six.

No lines have been leased, nor has any combination with other roads been made.

On February 15, 1895, the capital stock of the company was increased to $500,000. This has been issued in accordance with the body of this report.

MCKEESPORT, DUQUESNE AND WILMERDING RAILWAY COMPANY.

OFFICERS.

Name.	Official Address.
Fidelity Title and Trust Company, Receivers,	Pittsburgh, Pa.

HISTORY OF ORGANIZATION, CONSTRUCTION, LEASING AND CONSOLIDATION OF LINES OPERATED, AND STATUTES AUTHORIZING THE SAME.

This report is made by the Fidelity Title and Trust Company as receivers of the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company. It is made entirely upon information received, and in attempted compliance with its duty, as well as in explanation of the deficiencies of this report, said receiver submits the following statement:

The McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company was originally known as the McKeesport and Wilmerding Railway Company, and was organized under the street railway act of May 14, 1889, pursuant to letters patent dated August 10, 1892. By decree of the court of common pleas No. 1, of Allegheny county, entered November 21, 1894, at No. 760 December term, 1894, the name of the McKeesport and Wilmerding Railway Company was changed to the "McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company," and by articles of agreement dated August 24, 1894, and December 26, 1894, the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company, and the Citizens' Passenger Railway Company, (of McKeesport, Pa.), a corporation organized under the street railway act of May 14, 1889, by letters patent dated October 7, 1892, were merged and consolidated under the name of the "McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company." These two constituent companies had constructed, in large part at least, their respective lines of railway prior to the consolidation. At or about the time of this consolidation it is alleged that the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company also acquired the ownership of the large majority of the capital stock of the "White Electric Traction Company," a corporation under the street railway act of 1889, with letters patent dated November 26, 1890. By an instrument in writing, dated August 1, 1896, recorded April 22, 1896, the White Electric Traction Company, as alleged, leased its property and franchises to the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company.

These questions as to the stock ownership in the White Electric Traction Company, and also as to the existence or validity of the lease above mentioned, are now in litigation, as below explained. The McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company made its bonds to the principal amount of $350,000, dated December 1, 1894, and to secure the same made a mortgage of that date to the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, trustees, upon all of its property and franchises then owned or thereafter to be acquired, and subsequently delivered to the said trustees a supplemental instrument dated March 31, 1896, placing or purporting to place under said mortgage certain after acquired property, including the leasehold of the White Electric Traction Company. At No. 546, July term, 1897, the court of Common Pleas No. 2 of Allegheny county, upon a bill filed by said trustee for the foreclosure of said mortgage for default in payment of interest, the Fidelity Title and Trust Company on June 11, 1897, was appointed receiver, and as such was placed in possession of the railway of the White Traction Company, alleged to have been leased as above stated; and later a decree of foreclosure was entered, pursuant to which, on August 4, 1897, said trustee sold the property and franchises of the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company to Horace Crosby, which sale has been confirmed by the courts, and the delivery of the deed and the termination of the said receivership now only await the arrangement of details as to the manner or payment of the purchase money.

In or about April, 1896, the controlling interest in the capital stock of the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company changed hands, the bulk of the stock passing from the stockholders who had organized and had previously composed the two constituent companies, and at the same time the controlling interest in the White Electric Traction Company also changed hands, passing to the same persons who acquired the control of the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company. Immediately prior to the trustee's sale above mentioned, to-wit, on August 4, 1897, at No. 277, October term, 1897, the White Electric Traction Company filed its bill in equity against the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company, and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company as trustee in said mortgage, denying the existence and validity of the lease of the White Electric Traction Company lines above referred to. This case is still pending and undetermined.

The only books or records of the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company which have come into the possession of the receiver are those which have been opened and kept since April 1, 1896, not including, however, any books pertaining to the operation of the White Electric Traction Company lines, the last named company claiming to have operated its own lines independently and in its own right, and the result of the operation of its lines though embraced in this report having been ascertained by the receiver from the White Electric Traction Company.

The books and records of the old McKeesport and Wilmerding Railway Company, the Citizens' Passenger Railway Company and the consolidated McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company, pertaining to the business prior to April, 1896, have never come into the possession of the receiver, and the books in the receiver's hands pertaining to the business since April, 1896, relate to the operation of said railways, and have not been kept in such manner as to enable the receiver to answer the inquiries on these blanks more fully or otherwise than as herein set forth.

Fidelity Title and Trust Company, receiver McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company, by John B. Jackson, president.

HISTORY OF ORGANIZATION, CONSTRUCTION, LEASING AND CONSOLIDATION OF LINES OPERATED, AND STATUTES AUTHORIZING THE SAME.

Date of charter: January 30, 1893.

Montgomery County Passenger Railway was incorporated January 3, 1893, under the act of May 14, 1889, for the term of 999 years. About one and one-fifth miles of road have been built. Original capital of $50,000 was afterwards increased to $150,000. Authorized issue of bonds, $150,000, of which $15,000 were issued and proceeds used in construction of road. On the 6th of November, 1893, the road was leased to the Norristown, Bridgeport and Conshohocken Traction Company (now the Schuylkill Valley Traction Company) for a period of 999 years on the following terms:

A. Payment by the Traction company on the first days of January and July of each year of the interest on railway company's bonds at six per cent.

B. Payment to railway company at end of first year, $1,500, at end of second year $2,000, at end of third year $3,000, at end of fourth year $4,000, at end of fifth year $5,000, at end of sixth year $6,000, and at end of each year thereafter $1,000.

Note: Owing to a decision of the Supreme Court at the instance of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in March, 1895, it was impossible to build this road farther than 1.19 miles, and even that was cut into and about 600 feet of track was ordered to be taken up where it crossed the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's tracks.

The road has not since been in operation, but by arrangement with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company we have established it and now operate the 1.19 miles by the Schuylkill Valley Traction Company, which pays simply the interest upon the $15,000 bonds. The lease is annulled.

HISTORY OF ORGANIZATION, CONSTRUCTION, LEASING AND CONSOLIDATION OF LINES OPERATED, AND STATUTES AUTHORIZING THE SAME.

Date of charter: April 30, 1897.

The Pittsburgh Traction Company was organized April 14, 1897, with an authorized capital of $2,500,000, payable in installments. Up to date $1,900,000 of this has been paid in.

After securing control of the Pittsburgh, Oakland and East Liberty Passenger Railway Company by lease authorized by act of Assembly, March 22, 1887, the work of changing said road from horse to cable power was commenced, and by November, 1888, the whole line, including that part of the Central Transit Company from Wylie avenue to its terminus at Liberty and Fifth avenue, was operated by cable. On January 1, 1892, the Duquesne Traction Company and its railways were leased to this company, which after that date has operated the roads.

The rental consists of a payment to the Duquesne Traction Company of 42½ per cent. of the net earnings after all expenses (except the tax on capital stock) were paid, the latter item each company pays for itself. This lease was abrogated on April 2, 1896, when the Pittsburgh Traction Company with the Duquesne Traction Company and its railways passed into the hands of the Consolidated Traction Company for a period of 950 years. The statutes authorizing same, being acts of Assembly of May 15, 1895.

The contract on the part of the Consolidated Traction Company towards the Pittsburgh Traction Company calls for an annual rental of $175,000, payable semi-annually. The Consolidated Company collecting all receipts and paying all expenses.

September 4, 1889, the capital was increased to $30,000, and subsequently, November 23, 1891, to $50,000, and May 2, 1892, to $80,000; total issue was $53,400, which was all paid for. July 21, 1892, a mortgage of $30,000 was executed, and the full amount of bonds issued.

July 11, 1891, the road was opened and has been operated continuously since.

August 10, 1891, a resolution was adopted authorizing the purchase of 88 shares of the stock of the "Shamokin Electric Light and Power Company," which were afterwards purchased. November 14, 1891, the company made an agreement with the Shamokin Electric Light and Power Company to furnish it current for a period of 20 years at a stipulated rental, and dynamos and engines were procured for the purpose and placed in the power plant.

In October, 1891, the railway was extended to Second and Walnut streets, and in 1893 further extended to a park about a mile west from the borough of Shamokin, which has since that time been its terminus. In August, 1896, the company sold the power house, dynamos, engines, boilers, etc., and the ground upon which they were situated, to the Shamokin Electric Light and Power Company for $46,800, payable as follows: $22,300 in stock of the purchasing company, $9,500 in cash and $15,000 by the assumption of an equal amount of the outstanding mortgage of this company, and entered into an agreement by which the said purchasing company was to furnish this company with power for the operation of its road, and since October 1, 1896, the road has been operated with power furnished under said agreement.

October 1, 1896, the Shamokin Electric Light and Power Company took possession of the purchased power plant and has been operating it continuously since.

Upon the sale of the power plant, the company called in and canceled stock to the amount of one-half, leaving the outstanding stock, now but $26,700, represented by 534 shares.

HISTORY OF ORGANIZATION, CONSTRUCTION, LEASING AND CONSOLIDATION OF LINES OPERATED, AND STATUTES AUTHORIZING THE SAME.

Date of charter: November 26, 1890.

The White Electric Traction Company, was chartered November 26, 1890.

The original minute book and other books and papers of this company have been lost, and after diligent search and inquiry they cannot be located, so that it is impossible to give a full history of organization, etc.

On June 11, 1897, the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company went into the hands of a receiver, and the road of the White Electric Traction Company having previous to April 1, 1896, been operated by that company, it is claimed that this road comes under the receivership; this question however is in litigation.

In pursuance of an order of court, the business of the company has been in the hands of the receiver of the McKeesport, Duquesne and Wilmerding Railway Company, since June 11, 1897. This report therefore covers the business of the road from July 1, 1896, to June 11, 1897 only.

HISTORY OF ORGANIZATION, CONSTRUCTION, LEASING AND CONSOLIDATION OF LINES OPERATED, AND STATUTES AUTHORIZING THE SAME.

Date of charter: April 15, 1863.

The Williamsport Passenger Railway Company was incorporated under special act of Assembly, approved 15th April, 1863 (P. L. 1864, page 1180, etc.). The corporation was duly organized in accordance with the provisions of this act, and a railway constructed in the city of Williamsport from P. & E. railroad, crossing on West Fourth street, eastwardly along said West Fourth street to Pine street; thence southwardly on Pine to West Third street; thence easterly on Third street to a point near the intersection of the P. & E. railroad. The original rails laid were the small T rail. The road was operated with limited success until 1879, when the stock changed hands and a new management took possession of the road and renewed the track with 38 pound, centre bearing steel rails, and paving with stone the entire length of the road between the rails. In February, 1887, the company resolved to extend its tracks on West Third street, westerly from the Pine to Grier street, and also on East Fourth street from Pine to Basin, with connecting tracks on Basin, Grier and Campbell streets. Materials were placed on the ground for these extensions, but before the tracks were laid, the city of Williamsport intervened by injunction restraining the company from laying the tracks without first having obtained permission from the city authorities. This was resisted by the railway company and resulted in a decision by the Supreme Court of the State affirming the right of the railway company to lay its tracks and operate its road on any of the streets, lanes or alleys of the city of Williamsport, without municipal interference. (See case Williamsport Passenger Railway Company's appeal. 120 Penn'a State report, page 1, etc.). The company proceeded after this decision in its favor to lay its tracks on the streets above designated, and also on West Fourth street from the P. & E. railroad crossing westerly to Lycoming creek. The rails used were 42 pound, steel centre bearing rail, and stone paving between the rails the entire length of the road. The extensions were completed by September 1, 1888, and two lines of cars have since been running as designated elsewhere in this report.

October 1, 1890, the stock of the company changed hands and came under new management and steps were taken to improve the entire road. During the summer of 1891 the old track was taken up and relaid with 60 pound Wharton, side bearing, wide tread steel rail, and repaved between rails with stone, viz: From East Third street at Philadelphia and Erie Railroad crossing west to Basin street, single track; from Basin on Third street west to Pine street, double track; from Third and Pine street, on Pine street to Fourth street, single track; from Pine on Fourth west to Park street, double track; from Park, west to the car house on Philadelphia and Erie Railroad crossing, single track. The trolley electric system was adopted as the motive power. Cars, electrically equipped were put on the road and the entire service has been electrical since September, 1891. During the year 1893 the road was extended into the old town of Newberry, or the Seventh ward of the city of Williamsport.
